RUMOURS OF CABINET WAR DEBTS CONFLICT

Crisis Possible If America Plainly Refuses Suspension

MANCHURIA

LEAGUE'S PLAN OF ACTION

COMMITTEE OF NINETEEN

MEETING TO-DAY

Geneva, Nov. 26.

It is reliably learned that it has been practically decided to call together the Committee of Nineteen on Monday and that the Assembly of the League will be convened to deal with the Manchuria dispute a fortnight hence.

The belief prevails that the League Assembly will eventually adopt a resolution declining recognition of Manchukuo, thus directly or by implication condemning Japanese recognition, and that this will be followed by seeking Chinese guarantees under international supervision for Japanese interests in Manchuria.

SUGGESTED PROCEDURE.

It is gathered that the procedure will be that the Council submit the question to the Chairman of the Committee of Nineteen which will formally decide when the Assembly should be called, which, it is believed, will probably be the week after next.

Probably the League Assembly will first adopt certain chapters of the Lytton Report, containing statements of facts and pass on to the study of conclusions, and recommendations which will be sent to the Committee of Nineteen, where the real battle will be fought out.

TSINGTAO-TSINAN RAILWAY

CHINA AND SLUMP IN THE YEN

(Special to "Telegraph")

(By Telegraph. Copyright, Telegraphic Message Ordinance, 1924. Received, Nov. 28, 11.15 a.m.)

Shanghai, Nov. 28. In view of the slump of the Yen, Chinese leaders are making a renewed effort to raise funds to resume the Tsingtao-Tsinan Railway, which Japan agreed, at the Washington Conference, to restore to China on payment of forty million yen.

The purchase, at this time, would involve China in the payment of only half the number of dollars required with the Yen on the gold standard.—Reuter.

TEA RESTRICTION SCHEME

FINAL AGREEMENT REPORTED

London, Nov. 28.

The Financial Times learns from its Amsterdam correspondent that an agreement has practically been reached on the tea restrictions scheme.

The Indian, Ceylon and Dutch Indies Governments have promised their co-operation and an official communiqué is expected shortly.—Reuter.

ECONOMIC PARLEY.

EUROPEAN STATES TO HOLD PREPARATORY MEETING

London, Nov. 27.

The representatives of Holland, Belgium, Luxembourg, Denmark, Norway and Sweden are meeting at the Hague on Friday and Saturday next to hold preparatory discussions regarding the world's economic conference.—Our Own Correspondent.

Shanghai, Nov. 27.

Admiral Sakonji, who has been appointed Commander-in-Chief of the Sasebo Naval Station, left for Japan aboard his famous flagship Adzumo to-day.

He was warmly farewelled by Japanese residents.—Reuter's Special.

TO PAY OR NOT TO PAY?

SECOND NOTE DRAFTED LAST-NIGHT

AMERICAN VIEWS

FACED WITH THE GRAVEST PROBLEM SINCE THE NATIONAL GOVERNMENT CAME INTO POWER, MEMBERS OF THE CABINET SAT LATE LAST NIGHT DRAFTING BRITAIN'S SECOND WAR DEBT NOTE TO THE UNITED STATES.

Persistent rumour has it that there is a big conflict in the Cabinet itself regarding the procedure to be adopted and that to-day's full meeting may lead to the biggest crisis of the year. Financial interests assert that a large transfer of capital to the United States could only be effected with the greatest difficulty and would, in any case, be disastrous to British interests.

The probabilities are that the Cabinet will agree to the text of the second Note to be sent to America and that the real battle—apparently between those opposed to payment and those who urge payment at any sacrifice—will not eventuate unless America again presents Britain with a refusal to consider the suspension of the December instalment.

MR. AMERY SUGGESTS TARIFF ON U.S. GOODS TO MEET PAYMENTS

London, Nov. 27.

Recognising that the British Government's immediate concern is to end the uncertainty about the payment of the war debt instalment without delay and to present America with a reasoned case to induce her to agree to the suspension of the December instalment, leading members of the Cabinet met at No. 10, Downing Street to-night to consider the nature of the reply to the United States Note that should be recommended to the full meeting of the Cabinet to-morrow (Monday).

The Note will be despatched as expeditiously as possible and upon America's reply to this second overture, depends Britain's attitude on whether payment should be made.

At present, it is the view of the British Government that America has not finally rejected the request for suspension.

WASHINGTON OPINIONS.

High officials in Washington, according to the New York Times are of the opinion that the new British statement must present a very convincing argument if the present hostile Congressional attitude is to be modified.

Washington officials are at a loss to explain the apparently growing optimism in London that the December payment will be passed in consequence of some new arrangement, says the N. Y. Herald-Tribune, which, however, reports the possibility that a settlement on a broad front, even reversing the policy hitherto adopted by the United States in dealing with individual nations, is being discussed by unofficial circles.

It is envisaged that Britain will request America to waive the ninety-day notice requirement and agree to a postponement of the payment of the principal, amounting to $530,000,000.

FRENCH DECISION.

Meanwhile, it seems more than probable that the French decision depends upon that of Great Britain.

Her difficulty is not one of transfer, but in finding the money while facing a heavy budget deficit.

The Note which France is likely to send to America, probably in the middle of this week, will, it is anticipated, emphasise that if payment is made it must not be considered to create a precedent and that it is made pending an entirely new settlement.—Reuter.

MR. AMERY'S PLAN.

Mr. L. S. Amery suggested in the House of Commons that Britain pay her next three annual instalments on war debts to the United States, and then impose special tariffs on American imports to obtain future payments, if the United States can be induced to revise war debts meanwhile.

He proposed to use part of the Bank of England's gold reserve to pay the instalment due next month.

OPIUM BALLOON IN MOUTH

THE STRANGE WAYS OF SMUGGLERS

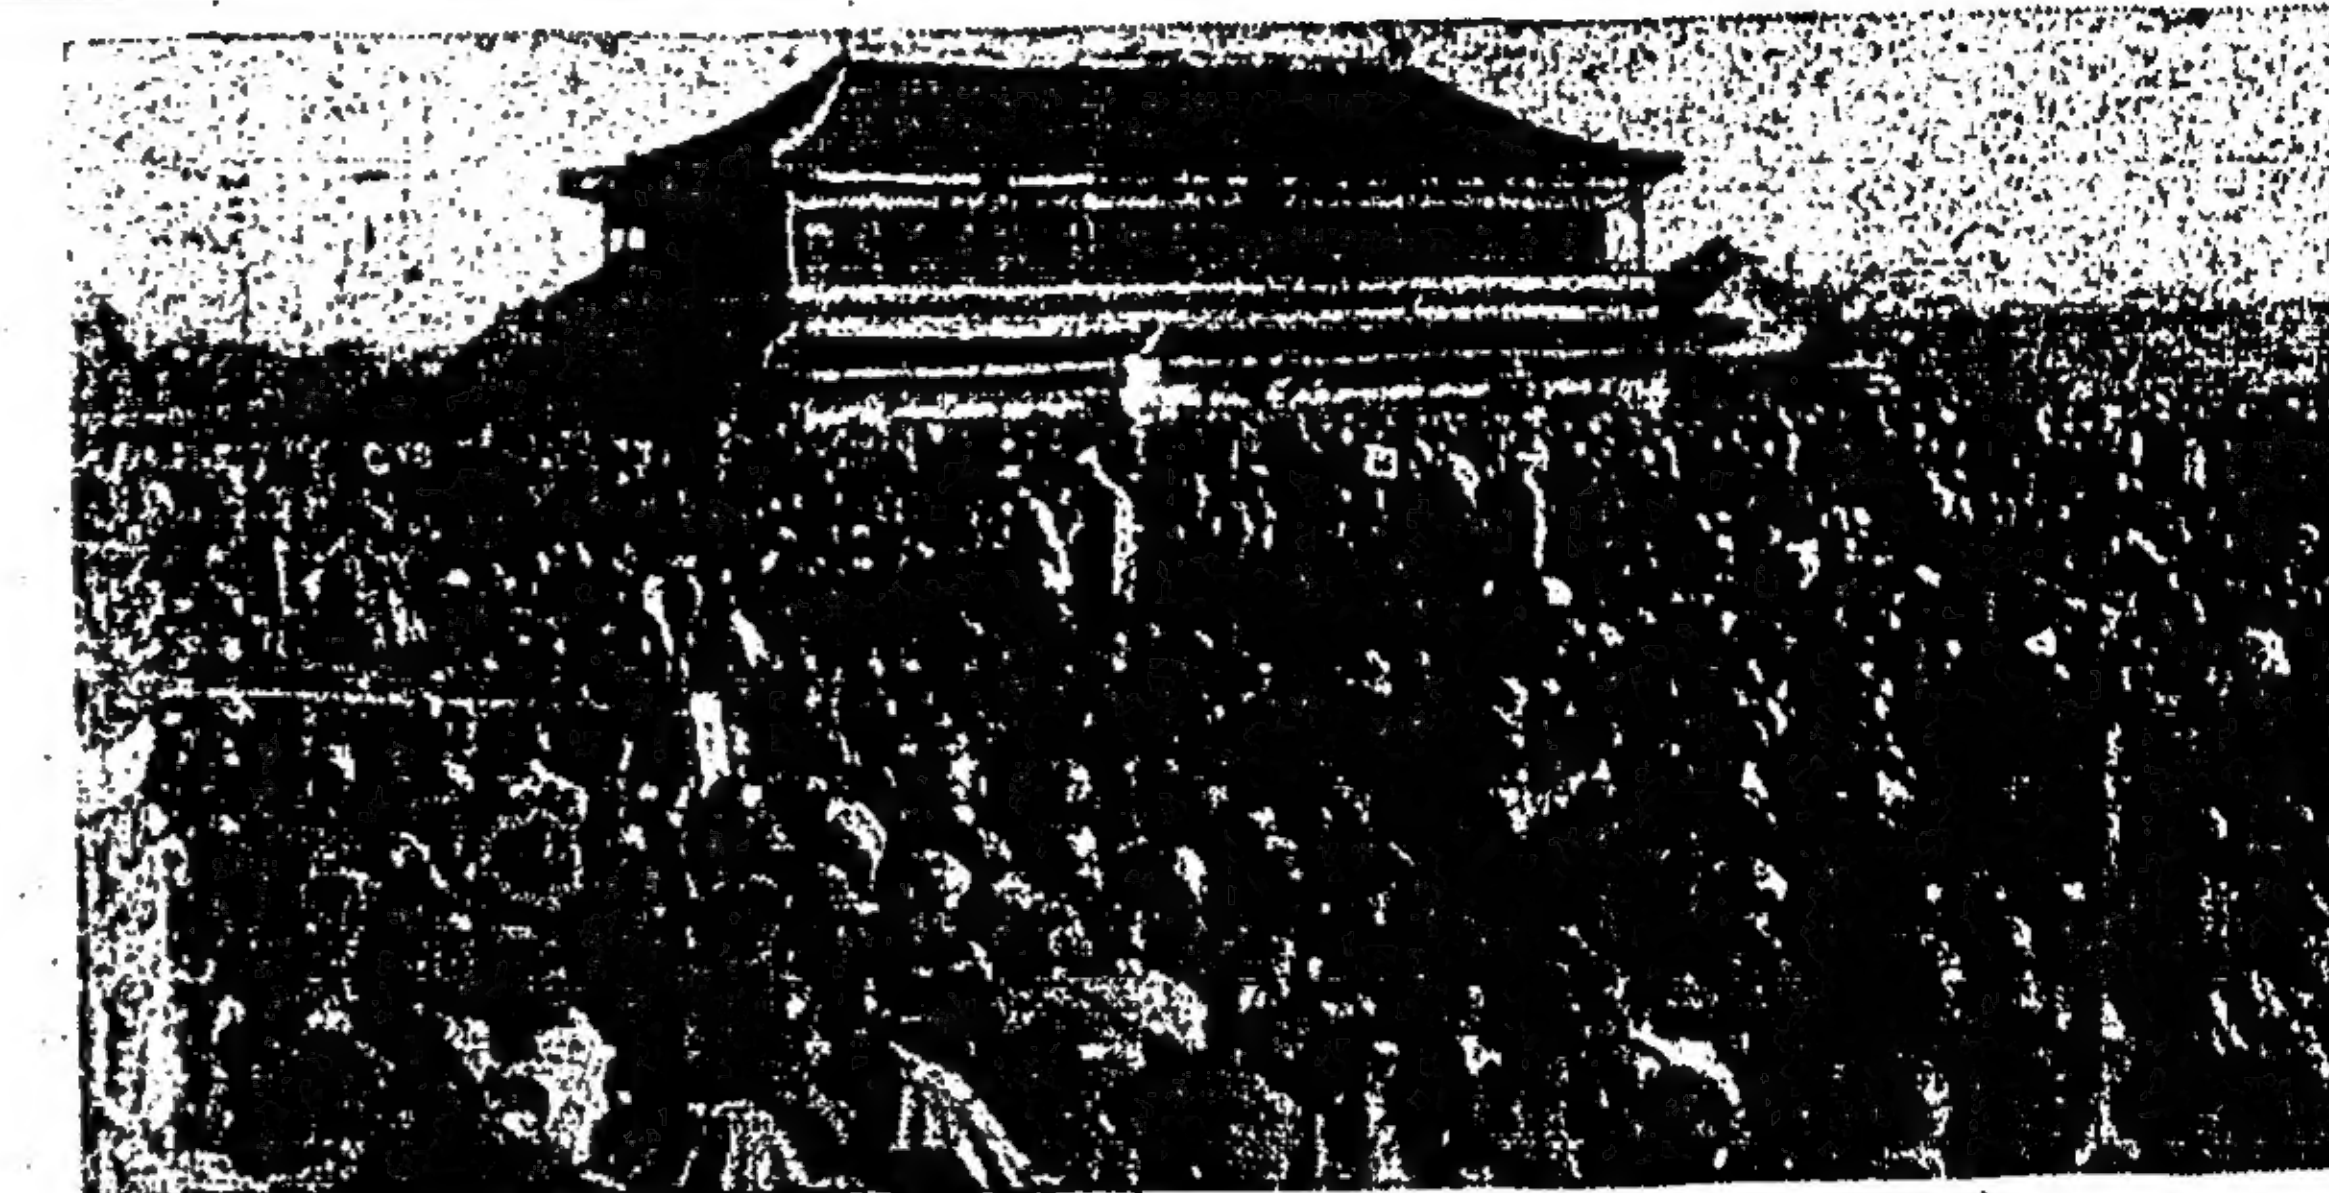

Two small rubber balloons, filled with illicit opium, were found concealed on a Chinese who was arrested at the Canton Wharf yesterday by the Revenue Department. One of the containers was in the man's mouth and the other tied round his waist.

On his appearance before Mr. Schofield at the Central Police Court this morning, Revenue Officer W. Ward charged the man with possession of 1.5 taels of prepared opium.

The defendant, who said he was formerly a cook in the employ of Sir Robert Ho Tung, was fined $150.

Another man who was arrested in possession of 40 taels of prepared opium on the same wharf was fined $1,500.

The wedding will shortly take place between Mr. Adolpho Maria Ghislini, Philippine insurance agent, of 6, Kent Road, Kowloon Tong, and Miss Elizabeth Maude Wiltchell, 7, Suffolk Road, Kowloon Tong.

With the feeling between China and Japan still tense over the Manchuria problem, special interest attaches to this picture, which was taken during the week of prayer for peace held by the Panchen Lama, spiritual head of Tibet, in the Forbidden City of Peking. At least 100,000 people attended the ceremonies daily.

IRELAND'S TROUBLES

RAILWAY STRIKE THREATENED

NEW YEAR WAGE CUT DISPUTE

(Our Own Correspondent.)

(By Telegraph. Copyright, Telegraphic Message Ordinance, 1924. Received, Nov. 28, 9.15 a.m.)

London, Nov. 27.

The Irish Free State is now faced with the prospect of a Christmastide railway strike, likely to bring the entire railway system to a standstill.

The railwaymen are up in arms following a decision of the Wages Board to impose a reduction of wages and salaries by ten per cent, as from December 31.

Big meetings of railway workers were held all over the country to-day, over a hundred meetings being organised, and at every meeting without exception, a decision was reached not to accept the reduction.

Speakers pointed to the increasing cost of living as the result of the tariff war with Britain, although, of course, the wage cut decision arises from the same cause, falling receipts consequent upon the stifling of trade with Britain.

IRISH GOVERNOR GENERAL

USUAL CEREMONY OMITTED

(Our Own Correspondent.)

(By Telegraph. Copyright, Telegraphic Message Ordinance, 1924. Received, Nov. 28, 9.15 a.m.)

London, Nov. 27.

It is not expected that Mr. Daniel Buckley, the new Governor-General of the Irish Free State, will proceed to London to kiss hands in audience with the King upon his appointment.

The Commission concerning his appointment has been sent to Dublin and the impression is that, accordingly, Mr. Buckley has been installed in office.

FINE WEATHER

The Royal Observatory reports that the anticyclone over North China has increased in intensity. A depression is situated in the northern part of the Sea of Japan. The typhoon is probably situated about 200 miles north-east of Manila, moving northward. Fresh monsoon will prevail along the coast and over the Northern China Sea. Local forecast:—N.E. winds, fresh; fine.

CIVIL WAR IN KWEICHOW

HEAVY CASUALTIES TO PROVINCIAL TROOPS

CAPITAL TAKEN

Shanghai, Nov. 28.

The vernacular press contain vivid reports of an outbreak of civil war in Kweichow, to the north of Kwangsi.

The reports state that the forces of Mao Kwang-hsiang, former chairman of the Kweichow provincial government, have captured the provincial capital, Kweichang, driving out the present chairman, Gen. Wang Chia-leh.

The fall of the capital followed fierce fighting, in which the provincial troops suffered severe casualties.—Reuter.

WORK OF SIXTH ARMY

CHIEF OF STAFF IN HONGKONG

General Haung Keung, the Chief-of-Staff of the Nineteenth Route Army, has arrived in Hongkong from Fukien. In a brief interview with the Press he said that since last May the Nineteenth Route Army had proceeded with the suppression of bandits in Fukien and despite the fact that the bandit-infested areas covered a vast territory, including the Chuanchow, Changchow and Lungyuen regions, the Province has been gradually restored to stability and peace. He added that the newly-organised village guards were co-operating splendidly with the soldiers.

The Nineteenth Route Army would next proceed with the building of roads "linking important cities to facilitate the transportation of troops during their operations against the bandits. The road connecting Changchow and Lungyuen, 240 miles, would be completed within three months, while that connecting Foochow and Changchow would be made suitable for motor traffic.

The P. and O. liner Kalar-I-Hind is due here from Singapore with the English mails at 10 a.m. on December 1st.

SHADOW OF TROTSKY

SOVIET REPORTED UNEASY

STILL FEAR HIS INFLUENCE

(Our Own Correspondent.)

(By Telegraph. Copyright, Telegraphic Message Ordinance, 1924. Received, Nov. 28, 9.15 a.m.)

London, Nov. 27.

The visit of M. Leon Trotsky to the Baltic States is reported to be causing some uneasiness to the Soviet Government.

According to messages from Stockholm, the Soviet authorities are taking special precautions and it is even suggested that Trotsky's own precautions, against agents of the dreaded OGPU are not based entirely upon imaginary fears.

When Trotsky is visiting Lund University in December he will be nearer to his native Russia than he has been since he was exiled in 1928 and the activities of the Soviet suggest that his influence is still feared by his opponents.

MURDER CHARGE

ONE OF THREE MEN DISCHARGED

Charged with murder in connection with the recent outrage at Cheungshunwan, Leung Fuk, Fung Lo and Ho Wai-cho made another appearance before Mr. Butters at the Kowloon Magistracy this morning.

Mr. C. Y. Kwan represented the first defendant, Leung Fuk, who was additionally charged with conspiracy to steal a junk.

Mr. J. A. Fraser, Assistant Attorney General, appeared for the prosecution, and intimated that he had no evidence against Mr. Kwan's client, who was accordingly discharged. The case against the other two defendants was formally remanded for one week.

POLICE SEEKING INFORMATION

QUEEN'S RD. MOTOR MISHAP

The police are anxious to get into touch with three Europeans, a lady and two gentlemen, who were travelling in a public car yesterday when it ran into a Chinese girl, aged nine years, in Queen's Road East.

It appears that the Europeans, not realising the seriousness of the girl's injuries, got out of the car and proceeded to Repulse Bay by bus.

The girl was later taken to the Government Civil Hospital, suffering from serious head injuries.

RECENT BROKERS' QUARREL

Rehearing of Case Refused

NO FRESH FACTS

The application before Mr. Schofield at the Central Court for the re-hearing of the case in which Yau Lok-tin, a broker, summoned Dr. Fred Kow for assault, and was himself defendant on a cross-summons, was refused. Both parties in the original proceedings were bound over.

In making the application on behalf of Yau Lok-tin, Mr. R.C.H. Lim indicated that it was on legal grounds.

For Dr. Fred Kow, Mr. Leo D'Almada, Sr., raised a preliminary objection to the application, upon which he thought the proceedings should be dismissed.

He gathered, from a copy of the depositions that on the 17th instant, within a week of the Magistrate's original decision, his friend applied for a re-hearing on the cross-summons, by which Yau Lok-tin was convicted of assault.

"NO RIGHT AT ALL."

The application was made on the ground that his friend was entitled to ask for a re-hearing to argue a question of law.

"The usual grounds," said Mr. D'Almada, "for an application for re-hearing in this Court do not give my friend any right at all. The usual grounds for such application are (1) that the applicant was not represented by a solicitor or barrister and that since the decision of the Court he had discovered fresh evidence which he could adduce for the purpose of establishing his innocence; and (2) that a certain witness who was intended to be called at the original hearing was not called through some accident or otherwise."

Mr. D'Almada proceeded to cite Stone on the subject, and the proviso given therein that Magistrates may re-hear cases after decision has been pronounced on grounds of having been taken by surprise by the evidence or having, subsequent to the hearing, discovered testimony which might have affected the judgment.

Mr. D'Almada pointed out that in this case Mr. Lim was not making his application on the ground of fresh facts discovered, but on a question of law which he appeared to have failed to argue at the original hearing.

LAW PROCEDURE.

Mr. Lim:—In the usual law procedure one is entitled to appeal on a point of law even where both parties are represented by legal representatives. I submit that the rule applies to this Court also. There is nothing to prevent me from asking for a re-hearing on a point of law.

Mr. Schofield asked Mr. Lim for his authorities.

Mr. Lim replied that the onus was on his friend.

Mr. Schofield:—It is your application.

After referring to the Magistrate's Ordinance, Mr. Schofield said:—My view is this: Re-hearing on a point of law is never laid down. The Magistrate may, at his own discretion, re-hear a case on any ground. But the Magistrate's Ordinance provides that the proper procedure is appeal to a Higher Court. The grounds for this application appear to be insufficient, and Mr. D'Almada's objection should be sustained.

THE WORLD OF WOMEN

By Joan Savoy.

If you have this aquamarine nightgown in your wardrobe, you won't mind it half so much if you have to stay at home and convalesce while everyone else dons gay sports clothes and dashes away to golf and motor. The gown, which is trimmed in ecru lace, has a little jacket which ties in front, and sleeves that puff just above the elbows.

The nightgown itself, which is fitted, has little tucks down the front in a sun-burst effect. It is lavishly trimmed with lace all around the low V-shaped neck, and just above the puffs of the jacket. The full skirt and train are fashioned entirely from lace.

The gown, because of its fitted fullness, will give you luxurious feeling of comfort that will make your dreams just twice as interesting if you decide to doze off while you are wearing it.

BEAUTY HINTS.

Good Grooming is A Test of Pride.

Many a smart woman has got away with making good grooming take the place of beauty.

Of course it is a lot of trouble. But isn't it worth the effort if you end up with an enviable reputation for being smart?

French women know the value of careful grooming. They never worry about the shape of their noses, colour of their hair or eyes or even their figures. They merely accept themselves and bend every effort to capitalize on every good point.

This year when white touches give the snap to black or dark costumes, never, never step out unless said touches are pristinely white.

Now that some hats are worn this way and others that, be sure you know exactly at what angle, if any, your hat is to be tilted, and tilt it!

Hair makes more difference this year than it has for ages. Keep it well-groomed looking. Take time out to fix it right every time you take off or put on a hat. Watch for straggling hairs and pat them into place.

More fundamental and quite as important as outward appearance is fastidiousness in your personal grooming.

If the woman lives to-day who doesn't take a daily bath she should be ashamed herself. You can take one, an effective sponge, with only a teacup of water, if you have to.

Daily deodorant almost should be prescribed by law, if women

FASHION'S NEW TWIST.

Frock with Back in Front.

A frock which is apparently worn back to front is the newest fashion phenomenon in a season which has been responsible for many unusual styles.

Women, being naturally inconsistent, will probably find the new dress very attractive. It attracted a great deal of attention recently at a luncheon party at the Malmalson restaurant in London. Not only did it fasten down the back, but the collar was under the chin, and tapered to a modified "V" at the nape of the neck, instead of vice versa.

Another striking frock had balloon sleeves as large as any worn by those daring damsels of the nineties who defied convention by cycling round Hyde Park.

An original muff was made in a large flat circle to match the large collar of fur and material worn with a coat. An amusing note was struck by knitted "stocking top" caps which, worn with some of the town and country clothes, recalled old-fashioned nightcaps, but are likely to be serious rivals of the bere. —VICTORIA CHAPPELLE in Exchange.

Some white kid gloves have deep wide gauntlets of hand crochet in mercerized cotton, in a cobweb design. In this case the lace is slightly stiffened so that the gauntlets stand well out.

The flimsiest of flimsy gloves are those in doubled fine black silk not with ruffles at the elbow.

NEW GOWN FLOWERS.

Paper Blooms That Will Not Crush.

Paper flowers in natural colourings are the latest trimming on evening frocks.

They are the invention of an Englishwoman and are, I am told, uncrushable and almost untearable. The colourings are so perfect that it was difficult to believe they were artificial when they were shown on some of the frocks in the Peter Russell collection recently.

Taffeta petticoats are being worn with many evening gowns this year. They rustle most alluringly, and now it is for Miss 1932 to decide whether, after all, a petticoat is really modern enough for her. —V. C. in Exchange.

FASHION'S LATEST WHIM

Fashion's latest whim is hand-crocheted gloves. They are made with fine silk thread and the finest steel crochet-hook.

Irish patterns are chiefly favoured, but some wrist length samples are worked all over in a simple chain and picot pattern with a close double crochet border.

Some white kid gloves have deep wide gauntlets of hand crochet in mercerized cotton, in a cobweb design. In this case the lace is slightly stiffened so that the gauntlets stand well out.

The flimsiest of flimsy gloves are those in doubled fine black silk not with ruffles at the elbow.

FASHION NOTES.

Fuller Skirts Again.

All the new dayclothes are undoubtedly longer, though not likely ever to attain ankle-length. The dressmakers in the new collections seem to have answered in the affirmative the vexed question, "Does a long skirt accentuate youth or not?"

The new evening dresses are tubelike, and have widening flares from the knees downwards. They hide the limbs, envelop ankles, and render feet almost invisible.

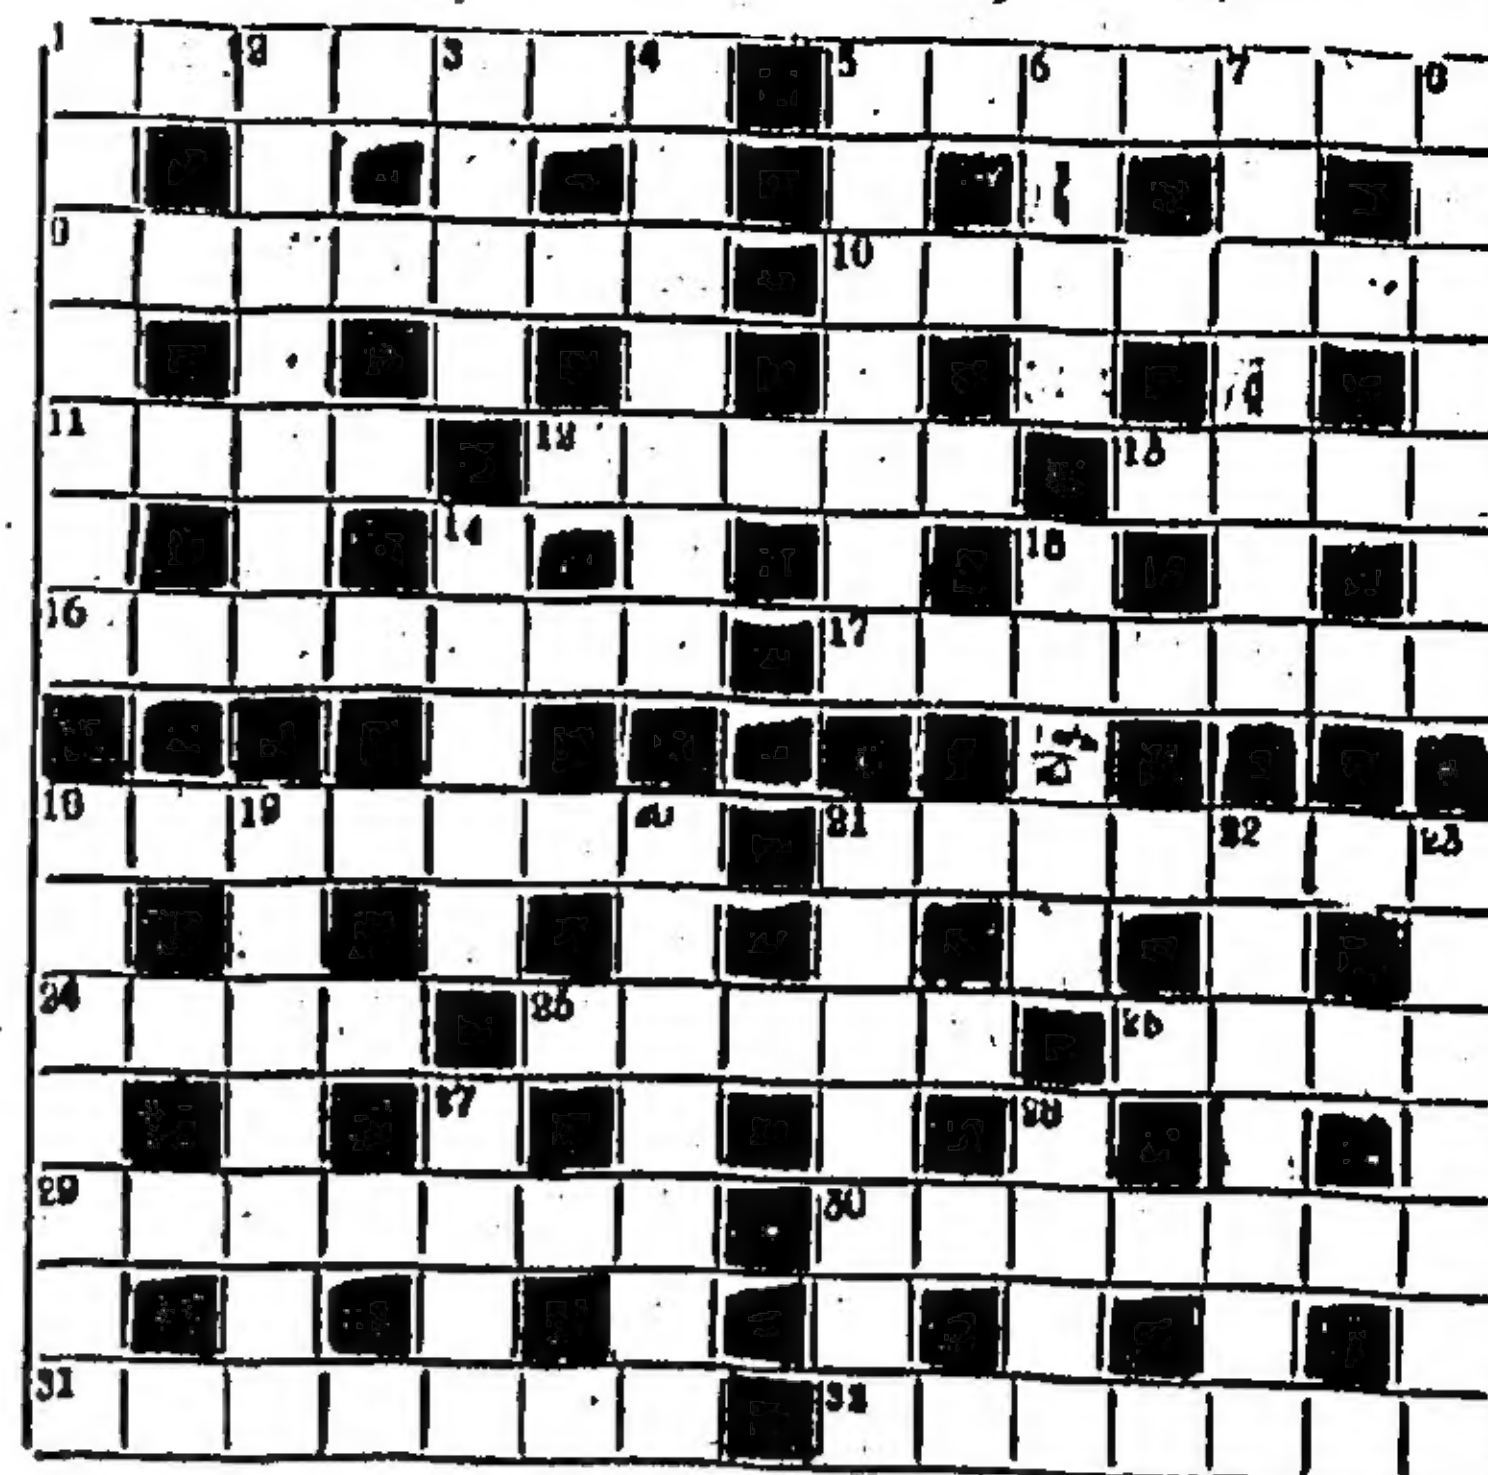

One of the big events of autumn and winter styles in Paris will be the frock and the ensemble, in at least two colours. The day-length evening ensemble belongs to the new movement, and it is going triumphantly along, carrying the banner of next season's smartness.

Fuller skirts, starched ruffles on evening sleeves, rustic gumples, ruffles on evening décolletages, collarettes, and scarves are shown. For afternoon and evening wear the artificial velvets are enormously important. They have improved greatly, and their intense lustre makes them oddly effective. They shine like polished metal.

SHADED NECKLACES.

Twisted necklaces grow more and more popular, and the newest designs are of shaded beads. The beads are tiny and many strands are twisted or plaited together, while the darkest colour comes in the front and the beads shade to a lighter tone at each side. Brown and green necklaces treated in this manner are most attractive.

CALL of the WEST

CHAPTER XXXIII

Stan Ball seated himself on the grass facing his prisoner. "Better sit down and rest a few minutes," he said.

Donna sat down and propped her chin in her hands to steady herself. She could not look Ball in the face. She did not regret for a moment saving him from the mob but she did hate to have to admit that she could not go through with her threat to exact the heaviest penalty of him. Her weakness of the past hour irritated her and made her determined to hate Stan more thoroughly than ever. She knew this would be impossible if she looked at him or let him make her talk.

Several minutes passed. Then Donna said in a low voice. "I am ready now."

Stan got up and whistled softly to the black mare. He helped Donna into the saddle and she willingly accepted this assistance. Leaping up behind her, Stan headed the mare around the steep slope, for he would have to take a roundabout route to the timber camp. Only the fool-hardy daring of his errand could save him. He was worried, too, for fear some excitable lumber man might see the black mare and take a shot at them, injuring the girl. For Stan had given himself up completely to the realization that he was utterly in love with Donna.

They cut back, dodging in and out for several miles. Every stride of the black mare carried them into territory that was deadly for Stan but he smiled grimly and urged the horse on. As they entered the outcutter ground with its scant cover he began to whistle a bit of a tune under his breath. Donna was silent but she let him hold her firmly when they crossed washes and fallen logs.

They were making a dash across an open space when a rifle cracked to their right and a spurt of dust rose almost under the flying hoofs of the mare. Stan spoke sharply and the little animal darted to the side and leaped into a thicket of alder and berry bushes. From this cover Stan sent her plunging into a dense growth of aspens. Donna had suddenly become very much alive.

Stan pulled up and slid to the ground. He jerked out his gun and stood ready to ward off an attack.

"I have been taking you in," the girl said slowly. "I intended to let them capture us." She met Stan's gaze for the first time. Suddenly she burst out angrily. "You'd ride right into camp with me!" Her lips trembled.

He shook his head negatively. "No. I aim to take you to the edge of the clearing and then make my get-away. I don't care to commit suicide now." His grey eyes held hers.

"You are going to leave me here! The fool that fired at us can take me in." Donna's eyes lowered and she flushed deeply.

"It will be worth the trouble to take you the rest of the way," Stan grinned. "The lady and I" (he motioned to his horse) "will enjoy a bit more excitement."

A thrashing in the brush warned them that several men were hot on their trail. Donna still sat in the saddle and Ball leaped up behind her. With a short laugh he sent the horse flying through the brush. Angry shouts floated down to them but no shots were fired.

The cover was beginning to thin. Suddenly a man rose from behind a boulder just ahead. He was balancing a rifle in the hollow of his arm and listening. It was evident that he had heard the galloping mare and was trying to locate them. Stan changed their course to the right and up the slope where they could keep to cover. Finally he pulled up and whistled softly.

"The woods are full of lumberjacks," he said grimly. "There's one just ahead in that patch of timber and there is another just above us."

Donna did not reply for a moment. "I'll get down and walk out into the open," she said firmly.

"I have something to say to you," Stan interrupted.

"Not now!" Donna was suddenly afraid of what he was about to tell her.

"I have to get it off my chest," he insisted.

"But you are literally surrounded and may be shot at any minute," Donna was on the verge of nervous collapse again.

"I'm used to tight pinches. This isn't half bad," Ball smiled evenly.

"Take the horse and make a break back up the trail," Donna almost pleaded.

"Not until I tell you." He held her in the saddle when she started to slide to the ground.

MOONLIGHT, a picturesque mountain camp, a pretty girl and a dashing cowboy. With such romantic elements of course there's a love story in "Call of the West" by R. G. Montgomery. There's adventure and excitement too in this thrilling new serial.

"Please go!" she begged. Visions of the last few hours, of Sworin's gang and the narrow escape this man had made from lynching were flaming before her eyes. She did not care what he was or what he had done, she wanted him to live. With an unreasoning urge Donna wanted him to escape unharmed.

"I couldn't get a 100 yards on horseback," Ball spoke calmly, looking up at her.

"Hurry! Tell me," she cried.

"I give you my promise on oath to leave this country and not to return," he said, holding her eyes.

"Then go!" she urged.

"I'll send you down to the camp on the mare but I'll have to have her to get away." He hesitated a second then hurried on. "I'll come down to the patch of timber behind the main building tonight at 9. Can you have the mare there?"

Donna met his questioning gaze squarely. "I can't take her. I will walk," she insisted.

"You must take her! It's my only chance. If we wait here much longer I won't need her."

"I'll meet you," Donna said simply. Stan slapped the mare across her flank. "Hike, lady!" he called softly to the horse.

The black mare laid back her ears and whirled. Donna had to hang on to keep from being tossed off. Down through the timber and into the open they sped. Men appeared from hiding and watched her go. When they saw that she was alone they turned their attention to the cover she had just quitted and began to circle around it.

Donna pulled up and watched them hemming in the spot where she had left Stan Ball. With wildly beating heart she waited. At that moment she realized that had Ball asked her to ride away with him she would have gone.

A rider burst from the timber and galloped toward her. It was Dudley and he was dishevelled and dusty, the first time she had seen him so since coming to Three Rivers.

"Donna!" he shouted.

The girl faced him mechanically and headed the black mare in his direction. At her side, Dudley leaped from his saddle.

A WORKERS' PROBLEM

The position of the "general worker" in England at the moment, when so many men are unemployed, is the subject of much concern just now. Prior to 1889, the organisation of labour was expressed primarily through the craft trades, the rest of the workers being largely regarded as labourers. Machinery had not been developed to the point it has since, and the volume of heavy manual labour was then much greater. From those days, when the public was forced to realise the existence of the general labourer class, a recognition has developed that there are really very few "unskilled workers." Every machine that is invented brings into force, even in repetition work, a new kind of skill. In the process of changing from the older to the newer process, this class of worker has probably been found most adaptable in equipping modern industries. Such workers are, in fact, a tremendous economic asset to the nation, though the insecurity of their employment is one of the country's greatest problems.

To realise this problem of insecurity, it is worth while bearing a few statistics in mind. There are roughly about twelve million insured workers in England, and a calculation of the people on unemployment benefit, public assistance or other forms of relief shows that over four million working days are lost every day. That means that the highest number employed on any one day of the insured population is roughly eight millions. These figures will enable us to realise the dread that hangs over a very large proportion of the country's insured population, because it is not the same people who are out of work; there is a constant change over taking place. It has been well said that the worst thing for a race is to destroy hope; the dread of want is the worst fear of all. Insecurity too often destroys these fine qualities of hope and ambition, and of zeal for accomplishment, with which the worker goes out into the world. At the same time, the influence of modern machinery, combined with the various wage schemes devised, tends to turn the workers from citizens to robots. And when industry lags, it is the general worker who first has to be dispensed with. At present, despite all the unemployment, thousands of people are working six and seven days a week, and this raises the question whether some better distribution of labour is not possible. Industry should reduce the utilisation of labour forces to just as much a science as the timing of machines, the costing of power, and the utilisation of other resources. Every day a worker is out of employment, two results are produced: firstly a steady demoralisation due to mental anxiety; secondly, a waste of skill that cannot be estimated in money.

A leading industrialist in the United States was asked at the time of the boom what he thought would be the minimum capital value of a well-trained skilled craftsman. He made some calculations and said that every time Great Britain sent them a man of that type she was making them a present in capital value of several thousands of pounds. If that is so, no-one can estimate the terrible waste of one of Britain's greatest national assets—the skill of her people—which is going on at the present time. To destroy the skill of the parents, is to damage the future of the child. The ambition of the child is often to succeed the parent and go one better in the craft or occupation that has had such a dominant effect upon him. Take away the example and influence that feeds this ambition and irreparable loss is caused to the nation. If we take this mass of labour, all of which is skilled in one way or another, although coming under the term "general worker" the insecurity and competition associated with it and the lack of comprehension by the State of the resources they are wasting, presents a terrible modern tragedy.

Hamlet—Amateur Detective.

If Shakespeare were contemporary, he doubtless would have been included with the other defendants at a mock trial of detective-story writers which was held recently at the London School of Economics, for the Bard of Avon was a master of the fascinating craft. In parenthesis it may be permissible to ask why such woeful lack of collaboration apparently exists between the detective of fiction—meaning, of course, his alter ego, the author—and his prototype of Scotland Yard. To the anxious reader chafing impatiently at the bit until next week's instalment shall forever put to rest all doubt as to who the girl with the green hat really was, or answer the all-important question why the butler slipped the bolt which let the burglar pass, the curious ineptitude of the police in failing to use such amazing and gratuitous acumen as the novelists furnish seems little short of criminal. Such inconsequential details as merely concrete evidence, or its utter lack, for instance, never give a moment's pause to the facile fabricator of the detective in the story. When clues evaporate and float away into the thinnest ether, he presents no unwritten page to dis-

DAY BY DAY

A MAN HAS NO MORE RIGHT TO SAY AN UNCIVIL THING, THAN TO ACT ONE; NO MORE RIGHT TO SAY A RUDE THING TO ANOTHER, THAN TO KNOCK HIM DOWN.—Johnson.

There will be a whist drive for service men in the west lounge of the Y.M.C.A., Kowloon, at 9 p.m. to-night.

The Crown Colonist announces the appointment of Mr. G. S. Wilson to be a police probationer in Hongkong.

A Chinese woman attempted suicide yesterday by jumping into the harbour from Yaumati Ferry wharf. Rescued by Kwok Lo, on a sampan in the vicinity, she was sent to the Government Civil Hospital.

After a rollicking start, with every one merry and bright, the musical picture "Viennese Nights," now showing at the Queen's, sinks deeper and deeper into gloom, ending by being exceedingly depressing. Interest in the story fades out half-way through, at the end of the first climax, and only those who can appreciate canned music—and some of it isn't bad of its kind—will feel satisfied with the picture as a whole.

The Health bulletin of Eastern Ports for the week ended November 19 shows the following cases of infectious diseases and deaths therefrom: Plague, Beirut 5 cases, Rangoon 1 case, Colombo 2 cases 2 deaths, Cholera, Calcutta 15 cases 6 deaths, Small-pox, Alexandria 3 cases 4 deaths, Aden 1 imported case, Baghdad 14 cases 5 deaths, Basrah 27 cases 17 deaths, Bombay 10 cases 3 deaths, Calcutta 19 cases 8 deaths, Madras 24 cases 4 deaths, Nagapatnam 2 cases 1 death, Rangoon 1 case, Tuticorin 8 cases 2 deaths, Pondicherry 2 cases 2 deaths, Canton 14 cases 1 death.

appointed readers. Straightway he turns to his ever ready, handy index file and there finds another clue that maybe served him well in such emergency before, or invents a new one with which he picks the lock of a strong box chock-full of circumstantial but quite convicting evidence. Against such incurable ineptness and ready resource, contrast the prosy fussiness of those at headquarters who squelch the inquisitive news reporter's ardour with an empty bluster and gruff, laconic statement, "Nothing broke today." At the London mock trial the charge of "faking the evidence" was preferred against some of Britain's favourite and modern detective-story writers. Tell it not in Gath, neither whisper it in circles Shakespearean or Baconian, but should not similar accusation, if justice be impartial, be levelled at the great bard himself? When he made Hamlet hire a troupe of strolling actors to perform a one-act play depicting circumstantial evidence of his uncle's dereliction, which he, Hamlet, had written overnight, Shakespeare started the detective story on its unending way and made the Prince of Denmark the world's original Sherlock Holmes.

"—And it says here, if they don't have place cards, you should wait for the host to show you where to sit."

GERMANY TO-DAY

What the Man in the Street is Thinking

By GORDON SHERIDAN

I AM writing in a private house in the very heart of Germany after having toured the country. I have visited Constance, Dresden, Berlin, Cologne, Hanover and other leading cities.

There is this to be said for the average German citizen—he is not floundering in the moras of pessimism. Nor is over-optimism dragging him too far the other way. He is simply tightening his belt, determined to carry on as best he may.

Two men are out of work in Germany for every one in Britain. The dole is being continually cut down. A man who earned £3 when in work may get only six shillings, and that for only a limited period. After six months of initial benefit, the dole is no longer paid by the Government, but is granted by purely Local Authorities, who may as likely as not be bankrupt.

There are half a million in Germany who receive neither work nor the dole. These who have not been hit by labour depression have been harmed by the constantly fluctuating markets.

The banks are no longer closed, but grievous harm was wrought during those fatal three days when money simply could not be obtained. Once respectable citizens have been reduced to beggary, it is no unusual sight to see outside one of the few German theatres that keep the flag of dramatic art still flying gentlemen of princely mien paying to go into the gallery.

I have spoken to a German ex-Princess who now lives principally on cats' meat!

The superficial may fail to appreciate Berlin's plight. The Berliners say that at all costs one must hide the outward signs of bankruptcy. The street cafes are crowded in the evenings by smartly dressed throngs. They have gone without their dinners so that they may drink coffee in glamorous surroundings. The bands play in the beer gardens, and the former customers stand on the street pavement to enjoy the music.

Back to the Land.

In provincial Germany the signs of want are yet more apparent. There are no traffic hold-ups of private cars such as one may see in Britain. There is no week-end exodus to the seaside or the country. There is an exodus, but it is of another kind. A "back to the land" movement has set in. Poor pay on the farms is preferable to city gutters.

I have met many men from British internment camps who have only good to say of the treatment they received, and these ex-prisoners make good ambassadors for us. But all the same, there is faith in Hitler.

The average German citizen sees in Hitler's policy a return to pre-war conditions. And if the term "pre-war" stands for paradise in Britain, it stands for something more in Germany.

Foodstuffs are cheap. One can get a three-course meal in a first-class restaurant for a mark. Cabbages are a penny each, and sandwiches and beer can easily be obtained for fourpence.

A shirt equivalent to anything obtainable in London costs five shillings or less. One can purchase a suit of clothes for little more than a pound. But against this fall in prices one is faced with the increasing, ever increasing, taxation.

The German is taxed on his income, on his food, on all his beverages but milk and beer. He adds to the revenue if he goes to a theatre, to a cinema, to a dance hall, or to a restaurant. German car taxes are the world highest, being in the neighbourhood of £50 per annum.

Further, German taxpayers who fail to pay their taxes promptly must pay interest on the arrears at the rate of 30 per cent. per annum. Not so long ago the rate was 120 per cent!

To her credit, Germany has not allowed her musicians to be swept away by the tide of talkies, but thousands of bank clerks are out of work through the installation of machines in offices.

Ready to Help.

The plain man takes it all philosophically. When possible, he helps his neighbours. I have heard a beggar make a little speech on an underground train. In Britain he would have received very little, but every German hand was ready with a mite to help him.

Frankfurt has a Neighbours' Aid Association. Various districts subscribe to give the unemployed one square meal a day.

Churches are disposing of their sacred ornaments so that they may help in the work of charity.

In Britain we have not yet come to this pass. The majority can generally "manage." In Germany, "management" is frequently impossible.

So all the cities are losing their inhabitants. Those having family ties in little villages are returning to their own kin. And there is in some quarters a perpetual fear—of war, both civil or from without.

France remains a menace in the German mind. Russia is feared on the other side. "We are almost defenceless," said an Army officer to me. "We hold mock battles and mimic warfare every other week, so that our soldiers shall be as near to military perfection as possible, but what if war comes from outside? Our strength is so puny, we are defenceless."

And if it comes from within? As I write, Germany is about to be plunged into another election, with the inevitable concomitant of street battles and bloodshed—and this only a few days after the first meeting of the new Parliament.

Faith in Hitler.

Downstairs, a typical middle-class family listen with bated breath to the edicts of von Papen as he speaks over the radio to all Germany. "Hitler!" they say. "Hitler must get in this time. And then . . . we shall see."

Faith in Hitler grows by leaps and bounds. Little children have learned the Nazi salute. In this village every other house flies the Hitler flag, with its sinister sign, the "Hakenkreuz." One sees it chalked up on walls and doorways, even on shop-windows.

Jews who were born in Germany are being forced to flee the country to escape from merciless persecution.

There is no enmity against Britain. Hatred increases against France and Russia, but if anything the "Englander" is admired. In every town one finds English clubs where the youth of Germany may practise the language and perhaps discuss British style and British games.

OTTAWA

By Edward Kelly.

Ours is a hard life, ours is. Take yesterday, for instance. We were told to interview Mr. Guzzlewuzzle, the well known local motor-car retailer, about the Ottawa Agreement.

"Get to—xx ?? ll out of here," said Mr. Guzzlewuzzle, greeting us affectionately. "The—xx ll automobile industry in Hongkong is—well ruined. Ottawall!"

"Thank you, Mr. Guzzlewuzzle," we said, and came back to the Telegraph and wrote: "The beneficial effects of the Ottawa Agreement are already making themselves felt in Hongkong. So busy was Mr. Guzzlewuzzle that he could not spare the time to be interviewed."

Anyway, if the Ottawa agreement has done nothing else it has knitted the bonds of discord. Which is almost an epigram. An epigram is something smaller than a kilogram, although not as big as a programme. (Programme—from the Latin "pro," meaning professional, and "gramme" your grandmother. A professional grandmother.)

It has also planted the seed of free-trade within the Empire. We (Continued on Page 2.)

CORRESPONDENCE.

A Question To The Peace Society.

[To the Editor, Hongkong Telegraph.]

Sir,—The vigour and activity of Hongkong's Peace Society compel one's attention and serious interest. Mr. Baldwin's recent speech in the House has drawn everyone's attention to the peril of the world. The fear of war is one of which neither military nor naval men, nor the ordinary citizen need be ashamed when it is no longer one's own life, nor that of other combatants which is jeopardised, but that of our women and children. Pictures in the illustrated papers of the preparations which Germany and other European nations are making against gas attack help us to visualise something of the horrors that await us. Yet the grim fact remains that so far the intelligence and will of the world has evolved no effective safeguard against the peril. So long as there are sufficient reasons for strife, nothing will prevent the next war. We have it in embryo already in Manchuria. If at Geneva Japan refuses the restraint of the League she may be tempted, as indeed her statesmen have threatened, to withdraw and then, on the principle that it is as well to be hanged for a sheep as for a lamb, declare war on China and pursue her well-known ambitions there. To take another case, Italy is a member of the League, and a signatory of the Kellogg Pact yet Signor Mussolini makes no secret of his view that the days of War are far from over.

I wish to suggest to the Peace Society, with whose aims I am in close sympathy, that while doubtless the first step in its work, irrespective of how effective its propaganda may immediately be, is to lay down the general principle of opposition to all war, the second and very urgent step is to think out constructively the effective alternatives to war. This has been approached recently from one side by the Editor of the Hibbert Journal, who in an article in the "Moral Equivalent for War" has shown clearly that just as War can, to an amazing extent, claim the last sacrifice of life itself, so there must be something in our conception of Peace which can claim the same final loyalty and surrender. I would approach it from another and more prosaic angle. Is there, in the present or in any proposed organisation for Peace, any provision for adjusting claims in equity as against claims in law that may arise between either nations of the world or classes or society? So far as I know there is not, at least as regards questions arising between the nations. Is not one of the reasons why the ideal of Peace fails to command immediate assent that its organisation so far seems to carry with it the stabilisation of the Status Quo? Are not the Treaty of Versailles and the Covenant of the League too inflexible to meet the developing needs of the nations? It may be the resurgence of national life and ambition in one nation, it may be the pressure of population in another. Is there provision yet in the world for adjudicating in such matters apart from the Peace? Must not the world press on—it may be through war, which God forbid—to the organisation of some League or super-state both powerful and flexible enough to take up and deal with such problems with impartiality?

It may be said that in the other case, of claims in equity between different classes of society, we are better provided against strife. This, however, is problematical. There are signs that class war is even more likely to break-out in some circumstances than international war. It may be claimed that the British Constitution gives sufficient scope for the representation of all classes. That is less true of other countries, and probably only the much abused and mis-named dolt has saved England itself from the peril of revolution in the last year or two. In any case we know that the Independent Labour Party has been working on the details of an organisation to take over when capitalism collapses. There are many who hate war to the very soul, who would still feel the call to this kind of war. It largely depends on how intimately one happens to know "how the other half of society lives". I have a friend who is a minister in a poor part of London—a man the latchet of whose shoes I am unworthy to stoop down and unloose. He is a University man, who won his half-blue for rowing. He is withal a strict pacifist, having what the late Baron von Hügel once described in private (he was speaking of his daughter) as a synoptic piety! But the sorrows of the poor have bitten into his soul. In spite of his pacifism he would be hard to hold back if the poor were organised for revolution. I can imagine him rallying to the old Chartist

BANISHEES SENT TO GAOL

LEPER NOT WANTED BY VILLAGERS

Banished for life in 1922 following a term of seven years' hard labour for armed robbery, a Chinese who appeared before Mr. Schofield at the Central Police Court this morning was given a sentence of twelve months' imprisonment for disobeying the deportation order.

The defendant, who was arrested in the West Point District, was sent away for life after serving his term for armed robbery, and last year he was again arrested for theft. On the expiration of his sentence on that charge and one of returning from banishment, he was automatically deported.

In the case of a mendicant who was deported last month, the defendant stated that he returned to Hongkong because the villagers refused to allow him to remain in their midst, as he was suffering from leprosy. Sentence of six months' hard labour was imposed.

Training Course—Part I.—All recruits of the Chinese Company will attend at the Central Police Station for Squad Drill on Thursday, December 1st at 5.30 p.m. Dress Blue Uniform and Cap with White Cover.

Emergency Unit Reserve

Defendu.—The defendu class will meet in the gymnasium at Central Police Station on Friday, December 2nd at 5.30 p.m. Members from other Reserve Units are cordially invited. (Sgd.) D. L. KING, D.S.P. (R).

Admirers of George Baneroff have another opportunity to see him in action in the current King's Theatre attraction "Lady and Gent." Baneroff, cast in the role of an ex-pugilist climbing the social ladder, has a role well-adapted to the personality he has brought to the screen. Excellent dramatization and a well-balanced supporting cast, make the production one of unusual merits.

A Question of Respect

Sir,—Much as I dislike the popular pastime of criticising others, I feel I must do what I can to draw the attention of the community to the disrespect so frequently shown in this British Colony for His Majesty the King and to the many cases of selfish inconsideration which one sees during almost every visit to local theatres.

The following is a good example: Last evening I was seated with others in the front row of the balcony of the King's Theatre. A gentleman occupying a gangway seat commenced to push past in the endeavour to leave a few moments before the show ended. Temporarily I prevented this. Being a Chinese, doubtless he was quite unaware of his inconsiderate rudeness and, when some foreign ladies were equally ill-mannered, I allowed him and a foreigner to pass. All of them could have climbed the stair gangway and left the Theatre without inconveniencing those seated in the front rows.

The number of British in Hongkong—some in the Services—who dislike showing a few moments respect for our King leads one to believe that the spirit of communism is spreading with the same rapidity as are ill-manners and to feel that perhaps one has but little justification for criticising Chinese and others who are shown such a poor example. If your opinion and personal experience, in local theatres permit of you to support my letter and my plea to the community, when in theatres, to remain at their seats until the National Anthem has been played, perhaps you can find space for this letter. If, in addition, you add your own views, it may lead many, who otherwise would not do so, to show a proper respect for our King and a greater consideration for their neighbours.

WATER POLO.

Week-end Matches at Y.M.C.A.

TWO DRAWN GAMES.

Two water-polo games were played in the Y.M.C.A. bath yesterday. In the morning the home side met a seven from the R.A.M.C., the game resulting in a one-all draw. The R.A.M.C. allowed their men to drift about the bath too much and gave the Y.M.C.A. many opportunities, full advantage of which were not taken. The teams changed over without scoring. Richardson opened the scoring for the R.A.M.C. but Jenner soon equalised.

In the afternoon the Y.M.C.A. and Eighth Flotilla played a two-all draw.

HENRY FORD ILL

UNDERGOES OPERATION FOR HERNIA

Detroit, Nov. 27.

A major operation was performed on Mr. Henry Ford today. Mr. Ford walked painfully into the hospital bearing his name, and was immediately taken to the operating table and operated on for strangulate femoral hernia.

The patient is progressing satisfactorily. Mr. Ford has never before been seriously ill.

Up to the present time Mr. Ford has donated $10,000,000 to the Henry Ford Hospital.—Reuter's American Service.

TIRED OF FASTING.

GANDHI CALLS OFF HIS LATEST THREAT

Poona, Nov. 26.

Gandhi has receded from his decision to restart fasting on January 1 unless the famous Temple Gauravayoor is opened to "Untouchables" which strict Hindus cannot stomach.

They have now consented to a referendum to be taken on the question.—Reuter.

In the current Central Theatre attraction "Good Night Vienna," Jack Buchanan, well-known English actor, heads a notable British cast. The production is conceived on light lines—there is no painful suspense—and the music set to these lines is gay and catchy, and portrays the life of the Austrian capital before the War. The big audiences during the week-end were well-satisfied.

HOW HONGKONG WON: SPECIAL "TELEGRAPH" REPORT

VIGOROUS LINE-OUT—Picture shows the Club and Borderers match in progress with a typical line-out. It was a hard fought game for which the Borderers emerged winners. (Photo Ming Yuen).

CLUB UNLUCKY TO LOSE IMPROVED RUGBY AGAINST THE BORDERERS

(By "Fly Half")

Borderers 8 points Club 3 points

The Club can regard themselves as distinctly unlucky to lose to the strong Borderers XV on Saturday. Superior in almost every phase of the game save in the loose, the Club gave a greatly improved display, the pack in particular doing good work in the tight. The Club had most of the ball, but ineffectiveness on the part of the backs robbed them of points.

For this game at the Valley the Club were aided by a breeze which was blowing from the pavilion end. The Borderers again deputized at the base of the scrum whilst Rigg and Burch came into the side at centre three-quarters and forward respectively instead of Griffiths and Kerr who both had strained ankles.

The Borderers field a very strong side including eleven of the Army who had beaten the Navy in the Triangular Tournament on the previous Wednesday.

Martin won the toss and set the Club to face a slight breeze which was blowing from the pavilion end. Turner kicked off for the Club, who were quickly driven back into their half where the aggressive tactics of the Borderers forwards kept them for some time. The Club pack was inclined to take things too easy for the first ten minutes of the game and a hard pressed in the loose, but in the tight scrums they saw most of the ball in spite of the fact that Hoskins nearly always put the ball in crookedly.

FAULTY REFEREEING. In spite of this, however, Hoskins was not penalized once throughout the game although the fault was glaringly obvious from the start on many occasions. The referee was also very lenient to the Borderers' wing forwards who repeatedly hung around the Club side of the scrum and by their offside tactics severely harassed Macintosh and Turner.

I regret having to condemn them for these tactics as they know the game well and play with tremendous enthusiasm and dash. But somehow in watching them I am given the impression that they always play with one eye on the referee. Having said this I have nothing but praise for the whole side.

BORDERERS SCORE. In the second half the Club improved, the forwards showing more life but the Borderers opened the scoring. From a loose scrum near the Club "25", the ball was heeled cleanly by the Club forwards, but Walters kicked it away from Macintosh and dribbled over to score near the flag. Lloyd converted with a magnificent kick to give the Borderers a five points lead.

Following this reverse the Club woke up with a vengeance. The game became thrilling with the Army forwards also aroused to greater efforts. The Club pack were playing magnificently and McElroy again hooking well and Hall-Thompson playing his best game of the season in the line-outs the Club backs were nearly always in possession of the ball. They were handling well in spite of an injury to Jenkins and it came as no surprise when Ferguson, running very strongly, got home to score a splendid try though tackled just short of the line. With his kick passing just outside the post McLellan missed a good chance of putting the Club on level terms.

LUCKY TRY. The Club continued to play a storming game and McLellan went very close when from a penalty taken a long way out his kick hit the upright; but again it was the Borderers who scored.

A Club attack was repulsed by a kick down the middle of the field which either Jenkins or Grove could easily have taken, but unfortunately for the Club each left it to the other, the ball bounced awkwardly for them and before they could recover the forwards were on them. The ball was kicked away and although one of the players was flagrantly offside they were allowed to go on for Hamilton to score an easy try earned by the quick following up of the forwards. Lloyd's kick failed.

Hard as they tried the Club were unable to recover from this reverse and the Borderers ran out lucky winners by 8 points to 3.

POOREST INTERPORT FOR 10 YEARS

BUT CRITICS ARE SILENCED WHEN LOCAL TEAM RISE TO THE OCCASION

MASTERFUL HOWE: CHENG'S TWO GOALS: SOUND DEFENCE

Hongkong (Cheng 2, Wong Mee-shun and Howe) 4
Shanghai (Gash, Bolton "Darkie" Chen) 3

PLAYING the game of their lives, with every member of the team all out from the initial whistle, Hongkong beat Shanghai in the Interport football contest at the Canidrome on Saturday by 4 goals to 3.

AYE! AYE! SIR

"I told the Interport team on the Mc-Kinley last Monday night: 'I want you to go all out from the first whistle to the last. Play your hardest from start to finish and I am sure you will win. But whether you win or lose, if you do this the Selection Committee will feel perfectly satisfied'."

"This is what they did, and they have won. It has made me the proudest man in Hongkong"—H.M. Mc-Tavish to "Veritas".

The standard of play was the poorest seen for 10 years, and according to our own correspondent, was below local league form.

This is the first time Hongkong have ever beaten the Northern Port on their own soil, and never has a victory been more richly deserved. Every member of one of the most closely analysed and severely criticised Interport combinations yet sent to Shanghai fully justified his selection.

Howe was a brilliant leader of the attack, and the Hongkong forwards more than realised expectations. Pardoe was another big success and there was no weak link in the visiting side.

STILL UNDEFEATED

Interporters Draw With Combined Chinese

THE Hongkong Interports put up another fine showing yesterday in their second match of the tour, when they drew with the Combined Chinese.

The team scored once each, and if Hongkong had made use of all their opportunities they would have won.

Shanghai never touched the form they promised, and in the second half were clearly outplayed, being constantly on the defensive. No less than 15,000 spectators followed the fast exchanges and fluctuating fortunes of the game.

(Our Own Correspondent).

(H.K. Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Agency, London, 1932. Reprinted, Nov. 28, 10.10 a.m.)

Shanghai, Nov. 28. Quite 15,000 spectators witnessed the Interport soccer match at the Canidrome on Saturday, and they were treated to the poorest display I have seen for ten years.

The standard of both teams at time was so low that it was not in the same class as senior local league football.

Hongkong well deserved to win, for they were the fitter of the two teams, and were always more impressive than the home team, whose team work was deplorable. Hongkong outplayed Shanghai in the second half, but lacked understanding in the first "45".

NOT A WEAK SPOT.

After the change over, the visitors jumped into their stride. They obtained the full measure of the Shanghai team and producing clever combination soon had the home team in difficulties. So improved a display did they give that there was not in this half, a really weak spot in the Hongkong side. Cheng and Baldry were starved in the first half, but for all this the Hongkong vanguard were vastly superior to Shanghai, whose weak efforts in attack were most disappointing to their supporters. The second half practically resolved itself into a straight-forward duel between the Shanghai defence and the Colony's attack, the latter being backed by a sound defence.

CLEVER CHENG.

Cheng Shui-hong at outside right was the most enterprising forward on the field and toyed with the opposition. It was his brilliant opportunism which led to his scoring two goals.

Wong Mee-shun, Howe and Suen Kam-shun, Hongkong's three inside forwards indulged in neat constructive football and were at all times clever for Stanley Gash and his colleagues.

Wong was outstanding with his remarkably clever opening-up passes. He gave Cheng every opportunity in the second half and at the same time allowed Howe to give one of his best displays.

Baldry after playing first rate football in the first half, faded out of the picture. His corner kicking was unusually fine in the opening stages, but later he became unreliable and mis-kicked badly with first-time shots.

"ANDY" IN FORM.

The Hongkong half backs came up to expectations. Andy Duncan using his head and feet with effect. Pardoe was at all prominent with some fine tackling. His work at times was marked by cleverness, but he was apt to be greedy and slow in distributing the ball.

Strange, at left back, was the finest player on the field, and together with Mullane and Rodger constituted a brilliant defence.

Rodger, although beaten three times had no chance whatever with the shots, and otherwise played his usual confident game.

The only player of note in the Shanghai team was Chow, the custodian, who in the second half continually thwarted the Hongkong forwards. He stood between Shanghai and a very big defeat.

The rest of the team were well below form and gave one of the most disappointing displays imaginable.

WELL DONE!

A TRIBUTE TO A FINE TEAM

There was no doubt that Hongkong was fairly astonished on Saturday night when the news came through that the team had beaten Shanghai, writes "Veritas". Mr. Hector McTavish, Chairman of the Selection Committee which had got together one of the most severely criticised teams Hongkong has ever put into the Interport field, was naturally delighted: "I am the proudest man in Hongkong" he said. "Nothing could have made me happier on the eve of my departure from the Colony than this."

Many I, as one of the chief critics of the team, offer my sincerest congratulations on the achievement. It is obvious that the success was no fluke, but that Hongkong won on their merits; if they had been three goals to the good at the final whistle they would not have been flattered.

SPIRIT THAT WINS.

That spirit of confidence displayed by the team and Manager Holland before their departure, was no light and meaningless thing. It carried the Hongkong men to victory and was the means of their achievement in being the first Hongkong side to take the Telegraph Cup away from Shanghai.

Before the team played their final practice match against the Combined Chinese I expressed the faith that they would win because of the strong forward line, and although on that occasion we were disappointed it is cheering to know that they produced their best form on Saturday and impressed Shanghai as being one of the best line of attackers who have ever visited the Northern Port from this Colony.

Howe, by his able leadership and a magnificent goal which decided the issue, fully sustained the confidence displayed in him and he has the personal satisfaction of knowing that he was one of the outstanding players on the field.

GOOD WORK BY HALVES.

The brilliant work of Cheng Shui-hong was another gratifying feature, although personally I never entertained doubts that he would prove his worth. He showed in the trials that he was a winger capable of giving of his best under any circumstances and his success was but a natural result to his inclusion.

H.K. LADIES LOSE TO ST. ANDREWS

MUCH BETTER TEAM

MAMAK WIN FOR RADIO

[By "Bully-Off"]

The Hongkong Ladies Hockey Club, holders of the Cacer Clark Cup, suffered their second successive defeat at the hands of St. Andrews Ladies when the teams met on the U.S.R.C. ground on Saturday afternoon. St. Andrews are the champion's closest rivals for the trophy this year, and if they are to retain it the Hongkong Club will have to show better form than that exhibited on Saturday.

On the whole the game was dull and uninteresting, the only bright spot being in the first ten minutes, when the St. Andrews team netted three in quick succession. The Cup winners were taken completely by surprise and before they could recover they were three goals down. Miss P. Gittens performed the hat-trick. From this point until the change-over play evened up, both sides sharing the exchanges, although St. Andrews continued to have a slight advantage territorially. The Hongkong Club offered a sturdy defence which their opponents were unable to pierce.

FLUCTUATING PLAY. Upon resumption, play fluctuated and it was only through lack of combination that the Hongkong forwards were unable to reduce the lead. Miss Alun Jones struck the post and Miss Ferguson netted a goal which was disallowed because of an infringement.

Miss Gittens was undoubtedly the outstanding player on the field, and had come in from her customary position of left-wing to left-inner. Miss W. White was the pick of the St. Andrews' intermediate line, checking the opposing forwards on numerous occasions. The Hongkong forward line was decidedly weak, and very little support to Miss Ferguson, who played a hard game.

OTHER MATCHES. The Y.M.C.A. Ladies fielded only eight players against H.M.S. Kent on Saturday at King's Park, and were forced to accept the service of E. F. Selk, of the Y.M.C.A. XI, and a member of the Kent team. At the interval the Sailors led by three goals to one, Miss B. Walker being responsible for the ladies' goal. In the second half the Navy men added a fourth.

By the odd goal in three, the Club de Recreo defeated Hongkong Ladies "A" at Sookupo on Saturday. Goals for the winners

L. R. C. "AT HOME" THREE TENNIS FINALS ON SATURDAY

Mrs. Stark and Mrs. James won the Ladies Doubles Handicap at the L. R. C. "At Home" on Saturday, when they defeated Mrs. Ward and Miss Orme in the final 6-3, 3-6, 6-2.

The Mixed Doubles Championship was captured by V. R. Gordon and Miss Thomas, who overcame G. Gamble and Miss Orme 6-3, 9-7. The men's singles championship final between Capt. Cannon and L. Evans was not played owing to Mr. Evans being indisposed. It will be played off at a later date.

Mrs. H. E. Tottenham presented the prizes and tea was enjoyed by the gathering.

were netted by A. Alves and G. Botelho. J. Datzel replied for the losers.

W. J. Brown scored three goals, taking his aggregate to 32 this season when the Y.M.C.A. defeated the R.A.F. at King's Park, on Saturday by 6-5.

The scoring was opened by Fowler, for the Y.M.C.A. and this was followed soon after by goals by Baldwin and Fowler again. Brown was the next to find the net before the Air Force levelled matters up with three goals scored by Batten, Gulliver and Furlington before half-time.

The exchanges were even in the second half, and Brown found the net on two occasions, Gulliver and Wallace replying for the R.A.F.

RADIO'S CLOSE CALL. The Kowloon Indians did well to hold the Radio Sports Club, present holders of the Mamak trophy, to a two clear goal win at Caroline Hill yesterday. The game was fast with plenty of hard hitting, and it was undoubtedly the sterling defence put up by Karnail Singh and Nadiu, who frustrated many movements by the Radio attack, that kept the score down. The result was somewhat of a surprise as the Indians have yet to win a game in the tourney and the Radio hold the second position in the table.

The Radio scored one goal in each half, Hanib and Gurbachan Singh respectively being responsible for the scoring. The latter scored through a penalty bully in the circle against the goal-keeper.

K.C.C. Beat Shameen at Tennis

THE TEAMS.

The programme.

The two tennis teams met on Sunday, singles being played in the morning and doubles after lunch. The K.C.C. established a lead of 4-2 during the forenoon play, and eventually won two of three doubles.

An official tiffin party, presided over by Mr. Ezra Abraham, Vice President of the K.C.C., was held in the club house, when Mr. Abraham presented silver spoons to the Shameen team as a memento of the occasion.

Mr. Jack Pote-Hunt, captain of the visiting team suitably acknowledged the gesture and expressed the hope that Shameen would shortly have the pleasure of again entertaining the Kowloon Cricket Club tennis team. After the match, the teams assembled and held a "stag party" dinner, after which the visitors left by the night boat.

The results in detail were:

Singles.

G. A. White (K.C.C.) beat J. Pote-Hunt 4-6, 6-4, 6-1.
W. Hung (K.C.C.) beat F. Road 7-5, 7-5.

F. Kengalbacker (K.C.C.) beat Ott 6-2, 6-4.
E. Zimmerman (K.C.C.) lost to J. Tatch 6-8, 2-6.

S. A. Gray (K.C.C.) beat Krebs 6-2, 6-7, 6-2.

N. A. E. Mackay (K.C.C.) lost to Hannaford 6-8, 6-2, 8-10.

Doubles.

Hung and Zimmerman (K.C.C.) beat Road and Tatch 6-3, 6-4.
Gray and Kengalbacker (K.C.C.) beat Pote-Hunt and Ott 8-6, 6-8.
Mackay and White (K.C.C.) lost to Hannaford and Krebs 3-6, 1-6.

Brentford Out of the Cup

READING WIN BY ODD GOAL

Astonishing Scottish League Results

London, Nov. 26. The Cup Tie matches generally Brighton surprised Crystal Palace were uneventful, the odd goal in three in the best game seen.

Queen's Park Rangers and the Kingstonians are the only Londoners to survive.

A feature of the League football was the deserved win of Tottenham Hotspur against Bradford City in the Second Division.

Tilson, experimental centre-forward of Manchester City, scored four goals against Aston Villa who were untimely.

Although Arsenal won comfortably against Middlesbrough, they were not impressive.

Stoke City, who have a lead of four points against their nearest rivals in the Second Division, earned unanimous praise by their display against Fulham, whom they defeated by three goals to one.—Our Own Correspondent.

HOW HONGKONG WON

Shanghai were evidently quite unprepared for the type of football served up by the visitors, and seldom has a Northern Port team been so completely outplayed as in the second half of the game. Messages from Shanghai state that there was only one team in it, which means that the home team just faded from the picture.

LOCAL LEAGUE

FEATURELESS DAY OF FOOTBALL

Local league football was fairly colourless and devoid of any outstanding results.

The navy, as expected, won comfortably against Reclero in the only First Division match. It was a game of poor football, in which the winners missed golden opportunities of adding to their "snap" score. The Reclero were seldom in the picture, the forwards in particular lacking decisive co-operation and thrust.

As anticipated, the Athletic Borders, Lincolns and Royal Artillery, the first four teams in the Second Division, garnered additional points to leave their positions in the table unaltered.

The (winners had the distinction of running up the biggest score of the day, piercing St. Joseph's defence seven times.

The failure of the Club second string to hold South China was the only game where the result went against expectation.

SAINTS WELL HELD

As indicated in the Telegraph on Friday, the St. Joseph's v. R.A.S.C. encounter in the Third Division produced a tense struggle from which the teams emerged with honours divided. The splendid work of the Corps defence reduced the virile Saint's attack to ineffectiveness, and the goalless draw was a fair result.

This enabled the Lincolns, who beat South China to gain a sound position in the table being a point behind St. Joseph's, who have now dropped three points in two matches, with a game in hand.

The Athletic over-ran the unfortunate Taikoo to the tune of 7-nil, this being the best score in the Division.

are all strong for Free Trade. Especially in hotels.

Yet we hear complaints from many quarters, also halves and full-backs, that free trade in Hongkong is gradually being undermined. We can only say to these whining carpers (or carping whiners) that they had far warning.

And anyone who denies this, is a seven valve hypocrite, and should be boiled in bamboo oil with salt to taste and a piece of karpis may be added if required.

Saying which, we dismiss the Ottawa agreement from our mind utterly, merely remarking as the door closes behind us that we have never, never heard so much disagreement about an agreement before.

CHINA REALTY COMPANY 8% DEBENTURES
8% INTEREST VS 6% INTEREST
MEANS ONE THIRD MORE INCOME

The following extracts are taken from the Chairman's statement at the last annual Shareholders' Meeting, February 29th, 1932.

"We feel that the Debenture holder from an investment standpoint, is just as much an interested partner of the Company as the Common Shareholder and is entitled to his just return on his investment, and by the figures given on the two years' working, I think we have amply proven that we were right that our Debenture holders receive eight per cent. interest instead of six per cent."

"The most successful concerns of the future will be those who recognize this principle—that even banks will allocate to depositors a part of profits earned on their money over and above current rates of interest. As our balance sheets show quite plainly, the proceeds from the sale of our debentures is not used for the purchase of Real Estate, as we are not speculators, but for investment in first class mortgages, amply secured not only by the value of the property pledged as security, but as a further security, the debentures constitute a first claim on the total assets of the Company. An analysis of the figures involved shows that every debenture has behind it assets equal to three times its value."

"If after careful consideration of actual facts and figures you are receiving less than 8% upon your investments and/or savings, you are not using judgment but following old customs, believing 5% and 6% are current rates."

COMPARISON

Mortgage Department, 1930-1931

Year	Amount	Market Value of Property	% Value loaned	Average Interest rate	Average Commission %	Excess Interest over 8%	Amount Commission Earned
1930	10,052,040	£18,662,000	54%	9.18%	1.215%	£118,614	£122,316
1931	19,194,867	34,075,565	56%	9.33%	0.765%	255,291	146,825
						£373,905	£269,141
							373,905

Earned above 8% paid to Debenture holders—£643,046

Of the above mortgages, there was assigned to investors:

1930	£ 6,532,660.00
1931	£13,223,545.00

A lower rate of commission existed in 1931 due to cheap money for the greater part of the year, from September, money commenced to tighten up. As it is we earned 1.33% interest in excess of 8% paid on our Debentures, in addition to £146,825 commissions. From the above it will be seen that our 8% Debentures are secured by first mortgages on 56.4% of value and backed up with $5,000,000 capital.

The natural laws of economics require an investor to secure the best return especially upon savings—trust funds—consistent with safety.

The China Realty Company is one of the oldest (established more than 20 years) real estate companies in Shanghai with a steady, successful record back of it.

Capital $5,000,000 fully paid in cash.

Business turnover 1931, $45,632,300 in land and mortgages only, which does not include management of estates, rent collections, insurance written, trustees for beneficial owners of property and sundry sources of income.

The Company are Realtors, not speculators in Real Estates.

The balance sheets as of December 31, 1931 shows:

Assets	£12,341,726.31
Lands and Buildings at cost	3,351,055.84
Cash	1,844,259.11
Mortgages on Real Estates held by Company Dec. 31, 1931	5,971,200
Total Debenture issue Dec. 31, 1931	4,840,700

by which it will be noted that all of the proceeds from Debentures are invested in Mortgages and $1,131,500 of the Company's capital.

In the past twenty years the Company has negotiated more than one hundred million Taels in mortgages, all of which has been repaid, principal with interest.

NOTES SUPPLIED BY THE THEATRES

Child stars don't remain child stars all their lives. They grow up. And, generally, they disappear into obscurity. Not so, however, with Ben Alexander, child star of D. W. Griffith's "Hearts of the World" and a score of other movies of a decade ago. He's no longer a child star, but an adult player of distinction. He will be found in an important role in "The Vanishing Frontier," coming to the King's Theatre on Thursday next, starring Johnny Mack Brown, and featuring Evelyn Knapp, Zau Pitts, Raymond Hatton and J. Farrell MacDonald.

In "The Vanishing Frontier," Alexander is cast as the brother of Evelyn Knapp. She, as the daughter of a general in charge of the military government of Old California, is in love with Johnny Mack Brown, an outlaw fighting against her father.

"Lady and Gent."

There are four types of lovers among American men. That you have on the authority of blonde young Wynne Gibson, featured with George Bancroft in "Lady and Gent," a Paramount picture which is showing at the King's Theatre. First there is the tender lover. He is a virtual slave to the woman he adores. He is never even for an instant, unkind or harsh. He tries to anticipate her every wish, and fulfill it before she can express it. Second, there is the noble lover. He is the kind who is willing to give up family ties, a chance to make good in his father's brokerage office, or anything else, to win the girl he loves. Then there is the romantic lover. He must have a moon, sighing pine boughs, and soft music in the distance to put him across. This type usually has to digest a couple of volumes of James Branch Cabell before a date. And last, but certainly not least, there is the civilized cavalier, the masterful lover. Most of today's popular screen lovers are of this type—Maurice Chevalier, George Bancroft, Clark Gable, John Barrymore, Frederick March and Ronald Colman. Miss Gibson, in "Lady and Gent," demonstrates her own liking for the last type by attacking with circling George Bancroft.

CALL OF THE WEST

"Are you hurt?" he cried.

She looked into his eyes and suddenly, Donna became repentant. Dudley had suffered during her absence, that was certain.

"I'm all right. How is Dad?" She spoke rapidly.

"He's running around like a wild man. We'd better get right in before he burns down the camp." Dudley was beginning to regain his composure now that he saw she was not harmed.

"Has he been riding?" Donna asked contritely.

"All over the mountain! You'll never know how glad I am to see you. I could no more handle him than I could a wounded tiger!" Dudley was plainly relieved to have Asper off his hands.

"We'll gallop right in," Donna said. She cast a last glance up the slope where the posse was forming around the dense growth in which she had left Sun Ball. The circle had tightened and the men now were crawling forward with the greatest caution.

Dudley mopped his face with a silk handkerchief as he jolted along at her side.

"Has Swergin been in with any news?" Donna asked.

"We haven't had a word about you. This is the first news." Dudley shouted to make her hear above the rattle of the horses' flying hoofs.

Donna's lips pulled tight and her eyes flashed. She would have something to say to the big timber boss when they met and she realized also that she would have some explaining to do on her own account. Her father might not be easily convinced when she told him of her experience. Donna was sure there would be a scene when she explained the near lynching.

BRIDGE

By W. E. McKenney

Editor's Note: This is the sixth of the articles by Mr. McKenney explaining the one over one system for contract bridge.

Contrary to the general practice used at auction bridge, third or fourth hand, under the one over one system in contract, may open on much less strength than is required for either first or second hand.

The third or fourth hand bidder is confronted with an entirely different situation from that of the first or second hand bidder. Partner has passed and he may have passed a very good hand, but one that could not meet the heavy requirements to make a first or second hand bid. Therefore third or fourth hand should make what is known as a protective or defensive bid.

The requirements for an original suit bid for one, third or fourth hand, are 2 to 2½ high card tricks and a biddable suit, and it is not necessary to have a re-bid. All that the third or fourth hand bidder is attempting to do is to protect partner's hand and to work for a partial score.

Reviewing original suit bids of one, we find that the requirements for first and second hand bids are very strong, while third and fourth hand may open with an apparently weak hand.

The auction player taking up contract will frequently make the mistake of opening the bidding with what he believes to be a fair hand instead of adhering strictly to the requirements as outlined in this system. It will be found after playing contract a few times that no trouble will be experienced in passing fairly strong first and second hands while being prepared to enter the bidding on the second round, and bidding rather weak third and fourth hands either for protective bids or for defensive purposes.

In the one over one system, only hands of exceptional strength are opened with anything more than an original bid of one, therefore it naturally follows that, due to the strong requirements especially for first and second hand bids, partner may keep the bidding open holding very little strength.

Partner should give the original bidder what we term a chance by replying to a suit bid of one with a bid of at least one no trump holding as little as two queens or a king and a jack.

It is true that there are types of hands that may be passed, but these are in the minority and at the start it is far better to keep all original first or second hand bids open with one no trump with as little as two queens.

Third or fourth hand vulnerable bids may be passed unless partner's hand contains a king and a queen, when a bid of one no trump should be made.

In the one over one system the original bidder may have opened the bidding with a very strong hand. The next hand passing shows a certain amount of weakness; and while there are a few hands where partner may get into trouble by keeping the bidding open with one no trump, they are in the minority and more is to be gained by giving partner another opportunity to bid.

To-morrow we will take up the proper responses to original suit bids of one.

THE MAYE SISTERS.

AUSTRALIAN COMEDIENNES
AT PENINSULA HOTEL

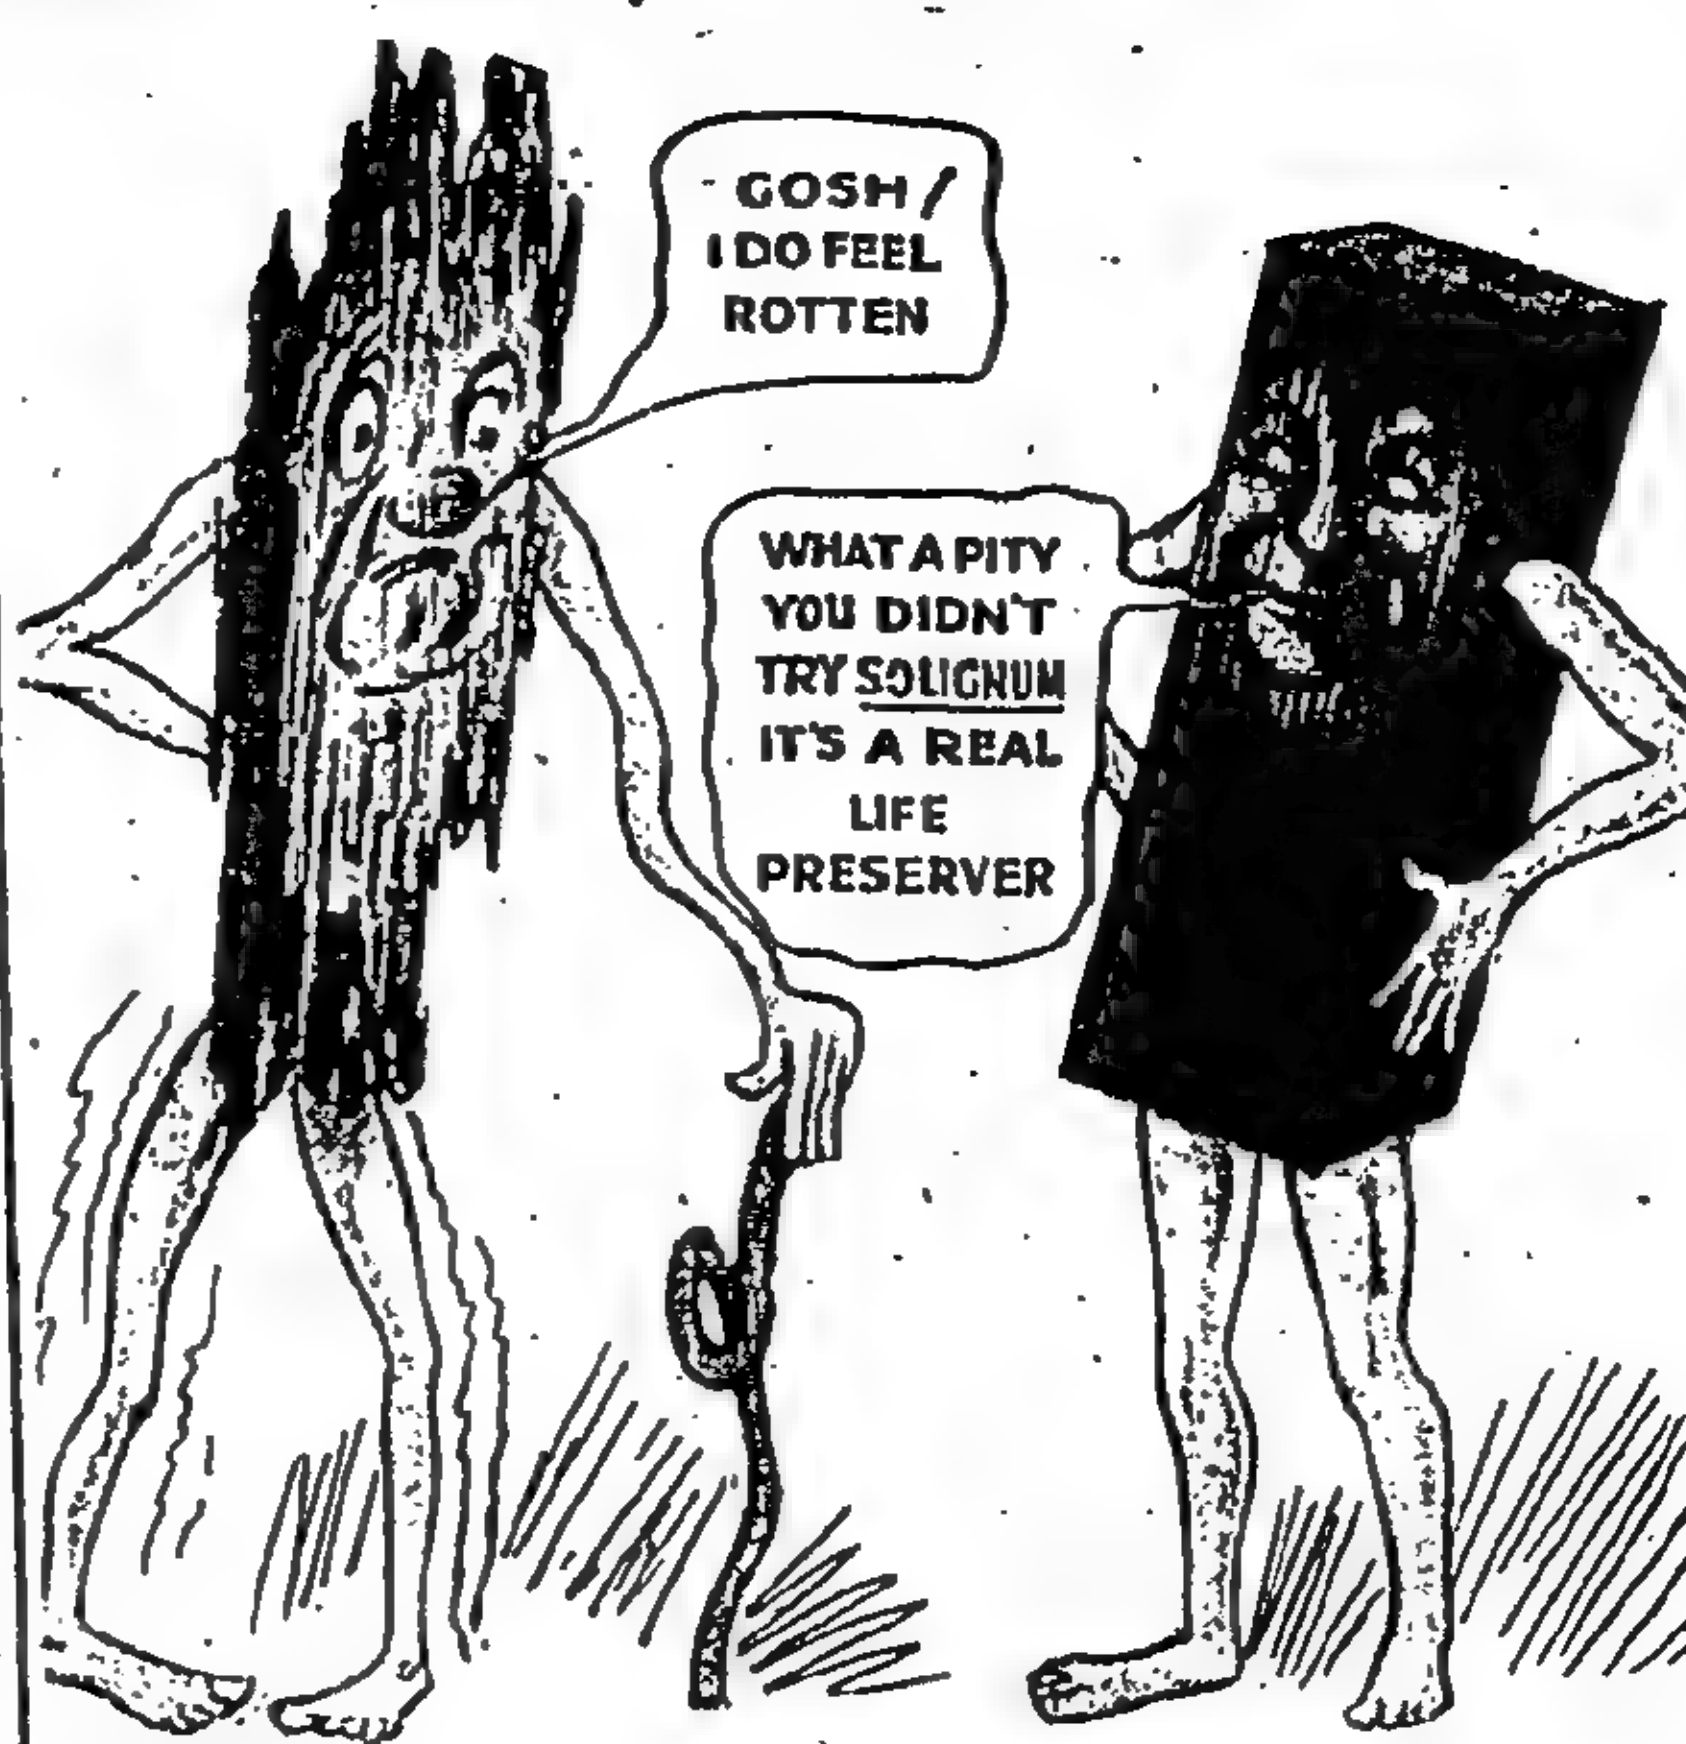

The large crowd which attended Saturday night's dinner dance in the Rose Room of the Peninsula Hotel were entertained by two Australian girls, "The Maye Sisters," in three pleasing numbers. These versatile young ladies presented a comedy sketch, "The Raw Recruit" in a manner that evoked hearty laughter. Their eccentric dancing and finally their tap dancing made them firm favourites.

Before leaving for Saigon to fulfil an engagement, the Maye Sisters will appear nightly at dinner dances in the Peninsula Hotel Rose Room.

CATCHY SONGS.A British & Dominions Super Production.
Commencing TO-MORROW

The National Broadcasting Company star, Graham McNamee, telling you as you see the story of immaculate Pitz Palu, mountain peak that lured men on with its gleaming whiteness... what a tremendous background for this drama of hearts aflame. What a throbbing thrills as the lovers leap over bottomless chasms, cling to crumbling crags! Climaxed by Germany's greatest living ace zooming his plane through perilous icegorge 2,000 feet deep!

With the song "Loving You."

The picture is so unusual, so unique, so thrilling, so spectacular, so gripping that we urge you to see it. The marvel of the picture is that it could have been filmed at all, so dangerous and unattainable is its locale. Featuring Gustav Diesel, Leni Riefenstahl, Ernst Poterson and Ernst Udet.

Directed by Dr. Arnold Fanck and G. W. Pabst.

It's a Universal Super-Production.

LESSON. SERMON.

FIRST CHURCH OF CHRIST, SCIENTIST, HONGKONG.

"Ancient and modern necromancy, alms memoriam and hypnosis, denounced" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist yesterday.

The Golden Text was: "Watch ye, stand fast in the faith, quit you like men, be strong" (1 Cor. 16:13).

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "Beware of false prophets, which come to you in sheep's clothing, but inwardly they are ravening wolves... Not every one that saith unto me, Lord, Lord, shall enter into the kingdom of heaven; but he that doeth the will of my Father which is in heaven. Many will say to me in that day, Lord, Lord, have we not prophesied in thy name? and in thy name have cast out devils? and in thy name done many wonderful works? And then will I profess unto them, I never knew you: depart from me, ye that work iniquity" (Matt. 7:15, 21-23).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health, with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Will-power is capable of all evil. It can never heal the sick, for it is prayer of the unrighteous; while the exercise of the sentiments—hope, faith, love—is the prayer of the righteous. This prayer, governed by Science instead of the senses, heals the sick" (P. 206:4-14).

The Chinese Customs at Prognatchany has been closed down according to Japanese reports, which state that the Chinese Eastern Railway commercial agency is collecting the export and import duties and remitting them to the Manchukuo Government.—Reuter.

CHURCH PARADE.

UNION CHURCH

The Union Church, Hongkong, was filled almost to capacity yesterday morning on the occasion of the annual Church Parade of the Scottish Company of the Hongkong Volunteer Defence Corps, at which an inspiring address was given by the Rev. E. G. Powell.

The Company, under Capt. H. R. Forsyth, and Lieut. Brown and Sanderson marched from the Volunteer Headquarters headed by the Pipes and Drums, under Pipe-Major Mackie.

In addition to the Scottish Company, the service was attended by H.E. the Governor (Sir William Peel) and Lady Peel, H.E. Major General J.W. Sandilands, G.O.C. the British Troops in China, Commodore Lawrie, Major H.V.L. Dowbiggin, second in command, H.V.D.C., and the following officers and committee members of the St. Andrew's Society:—Mr. K.E. Greig (President), Messrs A.L. Shields (Vice-President), J.W.C. Bonnar and A. Stevenson (Past Presidents), E.M. Bryden and D.S. Robb (Joint Hon. Secretaries), D. Gow, A.S. Mackichan and J.B. Ross. Also present were about 60 representatives of H.M. Ships, under Shipwright Gorman, and a detachment of South Wales Borderers.

The Band consisted of the honorary pipers, Messrs. W. C. K. Mackie, H.C. Watson, George Nesbitt, P.D. Wilson, and K. Morrison, and the following drummers, Messrs. R. Bell, W. Forsyth, Sergeant, S. Pollock and C. Andrews.

The "At Home."

Following the service, an "At Home" was held at the Volunteer Headquarters at which Mr. and Mrs. K.E. Greig, the Chiefs of the St. Andrew's Society and his wife, acted as hosts. For fulfilling this duty they were thanked on

QUIETER TONE IN THE PIECE
GOODS MARKET

The following reports by Importers have been supplied to the Hongkong General Chamber of Commerce:

Cotton piece goods & fancy cotton goods.—The following reports have been received:

There has been a quieter tone in the market and no new business of any importance has been recorded. The local situation has been overcast by the failure of two old established native Piece Goods firms, resulting in more bankrupt cargo being thrown on the market. Clearances have been on a smaller scale but prices for Staples remain steady.

The latest Cotton prices to hand are those of the 25th inst:—
Mid. American "Spot" 5.44d.
Egyptian Saker, F.O.F. "Spot" 7.56d.
Woolens.—The market for Woolens is fairly slow on account of the mild weather, with prices sagging. Clearances are proceeding but there does not appear to be any great demand for goods. New business is confined to a few small miscellaneous repeat lines for prompt shipment, with replacing costs relatively unchanged. Trade in Wool Yarns and Rayon is reported to be quiet with a small demand for "Spot" cargo at depressed prices.

Flour.—Market very weak.

the motion of Capt. Forsyth, who also congratulated them on the outstanding success of the recent Ball. He thanked the Rev. Mr. Powell and the office bearers of the Union Church for the help and facilities granted the Company during the year.

Replying, Mr. Greig congratulated the Company on the excellent turnout, stating that he had attended such services for many years but the one that day was the largest and most handsome. He thanked the pipers and company generally for the way they had contributed to the success of the St. Andrew's Ball the previous Friday.

JAPAN AND LEAGUE

MANCHURIA PROBLEM TO GO TO ASSEMBLY

Tokyo, Nov. 26. The Japanese delegation to Geneva has been instructed to attend the League Assembly but to oppose the application of Article Fifteen of the League Covenant to the dispute.—Reuter.

Tokyo, Nov. 27. It is reliably reported that Japan will strongly oppose any move to give Assembly full power of discussing the Manchurian question, according to a decision reached at a special meeting today of officials of the Foreign office.—Reuter's Special.

Shanghai, Nov. 27. Whatever force is applied, the fact that the State of Manchukuo really exists cannot be denied. This is the gist of a lengthy statement which Mr. Shih Chieh-shih has sent from Changchun to the League of Nations and all Consulates in Manchuria.—Reuter's Special.

RUMOURS OF CABINET WAR DEBTS CONFLICT

Crisis Possible If America Plainly Refuses Suspension

SUTCLIFFE BOWLED

FINALLY OUT FOR 182 RUNS

SUBDUED THIS MORNING

Sydney, Nov. 28.

The M. C. C. carried their score from 339 to 407 before lunch this morning, thus establishing a lead of 134 runs with four wickets to fall.

Sutcliffe was among Australia's victims. He was very subdued this morning, but his wicket did not fall until shortly before the lunch interval, when the total stood at 399.

Previously during the morning he had survived two appeals for l. b.w. At 899, he attempted to turn a ball from Hird to leg and was bowled off his pads. He had contributed 182 runs to the total.

AUSTRALIAN TEST TROUBLES

BRADMAN IN BED.

Sydney, Nov. 28.

Don Bradman, Australia's finest batsman, has been ordered to bed by his doctor suffering from a chill and sore throat. He hopes to be available for the first Test on Friday.

W.A. Oldfield, Australia's wicket-keeper, is reported to be progressing, and also hopes to be fit for the Test.—Reuter.

compiled in five hours and 52 minutes. His score included twenty-two boundary hits.

SLOW PROGRESS.

The slowness of his progress to-day may be judged from the fact that he only obtained 25 out of the 60 runs put on before his dismissal.

Ames is now batting confidently, having obtained, so far 27 not out.

Lunch scores:

New South Wales:—273 (Fingleton 119 not out, McCabe 67, Tate 1 for 53, Allen 5 for 69).

England XI:—407 for 6 wickets (Sutcliffe 182, Wyatt 72, Pataudi 61).

POLICE SEEKING INFORMATION

QUEEN'S RD. MOTOR MISHAP

The police are anxious to get into touch with three Europeans, a lady and two gentlemen, who were travelling in a public car yesterday when it ran into a Chinese girl, aged nine years, in Queen's Road East.

It appears that the Europeans, not realising the seriousness of the girl's injuries, got out of the car and proceeded to Repulse Bay by bus.

The girl was later taken to the Government Civil Hospital suffering from serious head injuries.

SHANGHAI'S CONGRATULATIONS

WONDERFUL DISPLAY YESTERDAY

The following cable has been received by the assistant Secretary of the H.K.F.A.:—"The Shanghai Football Association sends hearty congratulations on a great and deserved interport victory and on the wonderful display of football against the Chinese yesterday. Hongkong can be proud of its team."

TO PAY OR NOT TO PAY?

SECOND NOTE DRAFTED LAST NIGHT

AMERICAN VIEWS

FACED WITH THE GRAVEST PROBLEM SINCE THE NATIONAL GOVERNMENT CAME INTO POWER, MEMBERS OF THE CABINET SAT LAST NIGHT DRAFTING BRITAIN'S SECOND WAR DEBT NOTE TO THE UNITED STATES.

Persistent rumour has it that there is a big conflict in the Cabinet itself regarding the procedure to be adopted and that to-day's full meeting may lead to the biggest crisis of the year. Financial interests assert that a large transfer of capital to the United States could only be effected with the greatest difficulty and would, in any case, be disastrous to British interests.

The probabilities are that the Cabinet will agree to the text of the second Note to be sent to America and that the real battle—apparently between those opposed to payment and those who urge payment at any sacrifice—will not eventuate unless America again presents Britain with a refusal to consider the suspension of the December instalment.

MR. AMERY SUGGESTS TARIFF ON U.S. GOODS TO MEET PAYMENTS

London, Nov. 27. Recognising that the British Government's immediate concern is to end the uncertainty about the payment of the war debt instalment without delay and to present America with a reasoned case to induce her to agree to the suspension of the December instalment, leading members of the Cabinet met at No. 10, Downing Street to-night to consider the nature of the reply to the United States Note that should be recommended to the full meeting of the Cabinet to-morrow (Monday).

The Note will be despatched as expeditiously as possible and upon America's Reply to this second overture, depends Britain's attitude on whether payment should be made.

At present, it is the view of the British Government that America has not finally rejected the request for suspension.

WASHINGTON OPINIONS.

High officials in Washington, according to the New York Times are of the opinion that the new British statement must present a very convincing argument if the present hostile Congressional attitude is to be modified.

Washington officials are at a loss to explain the apparently growing optimism in London that the December payment will be passed in consequence of some new arrangement, says the N. Y. Herald-Tribune, which, however, reports the possibility that a settlement on a broad front, even reversing the policy hitherto adopted by the United States in dealing with individual nations, is being discussed by unofficial circles.

It is envisaged that Britain will request America to waive the ninety-day notice requirement and agree to a postponement of the payment of the principal, amounting to $330,000,000.

FRENCH DECISION.

Meanwhile, it seems more than probable that the French decision depends upon that of Great Britain.

Her difficulty is not one of transfer, but in finding the money while facing a heavy budget deficit.

The Note which France is likely to send to America, probably in the middle of this week, will, it is anticipated, emphasise that if payment is made it must not be considered to create a precedent and that it is made pending an entirely new settlement.—Reuter.

MR. AMERY'S PLAN.

Mr. L. S. Amery suggested in the House of Commons that Britain pay her next three annual instalments on war debts to the United States, and then impose special tariffs on American imports to obtain future payments, if the United States can not be induced to revise war debts meanwhile.

He proposed to use part of the Bank of England's gold reserve to pay the instalment due next month.

OPIUM BALLOON IN MOUTH

THE STRANGE WAYS OF SMUGGLERS

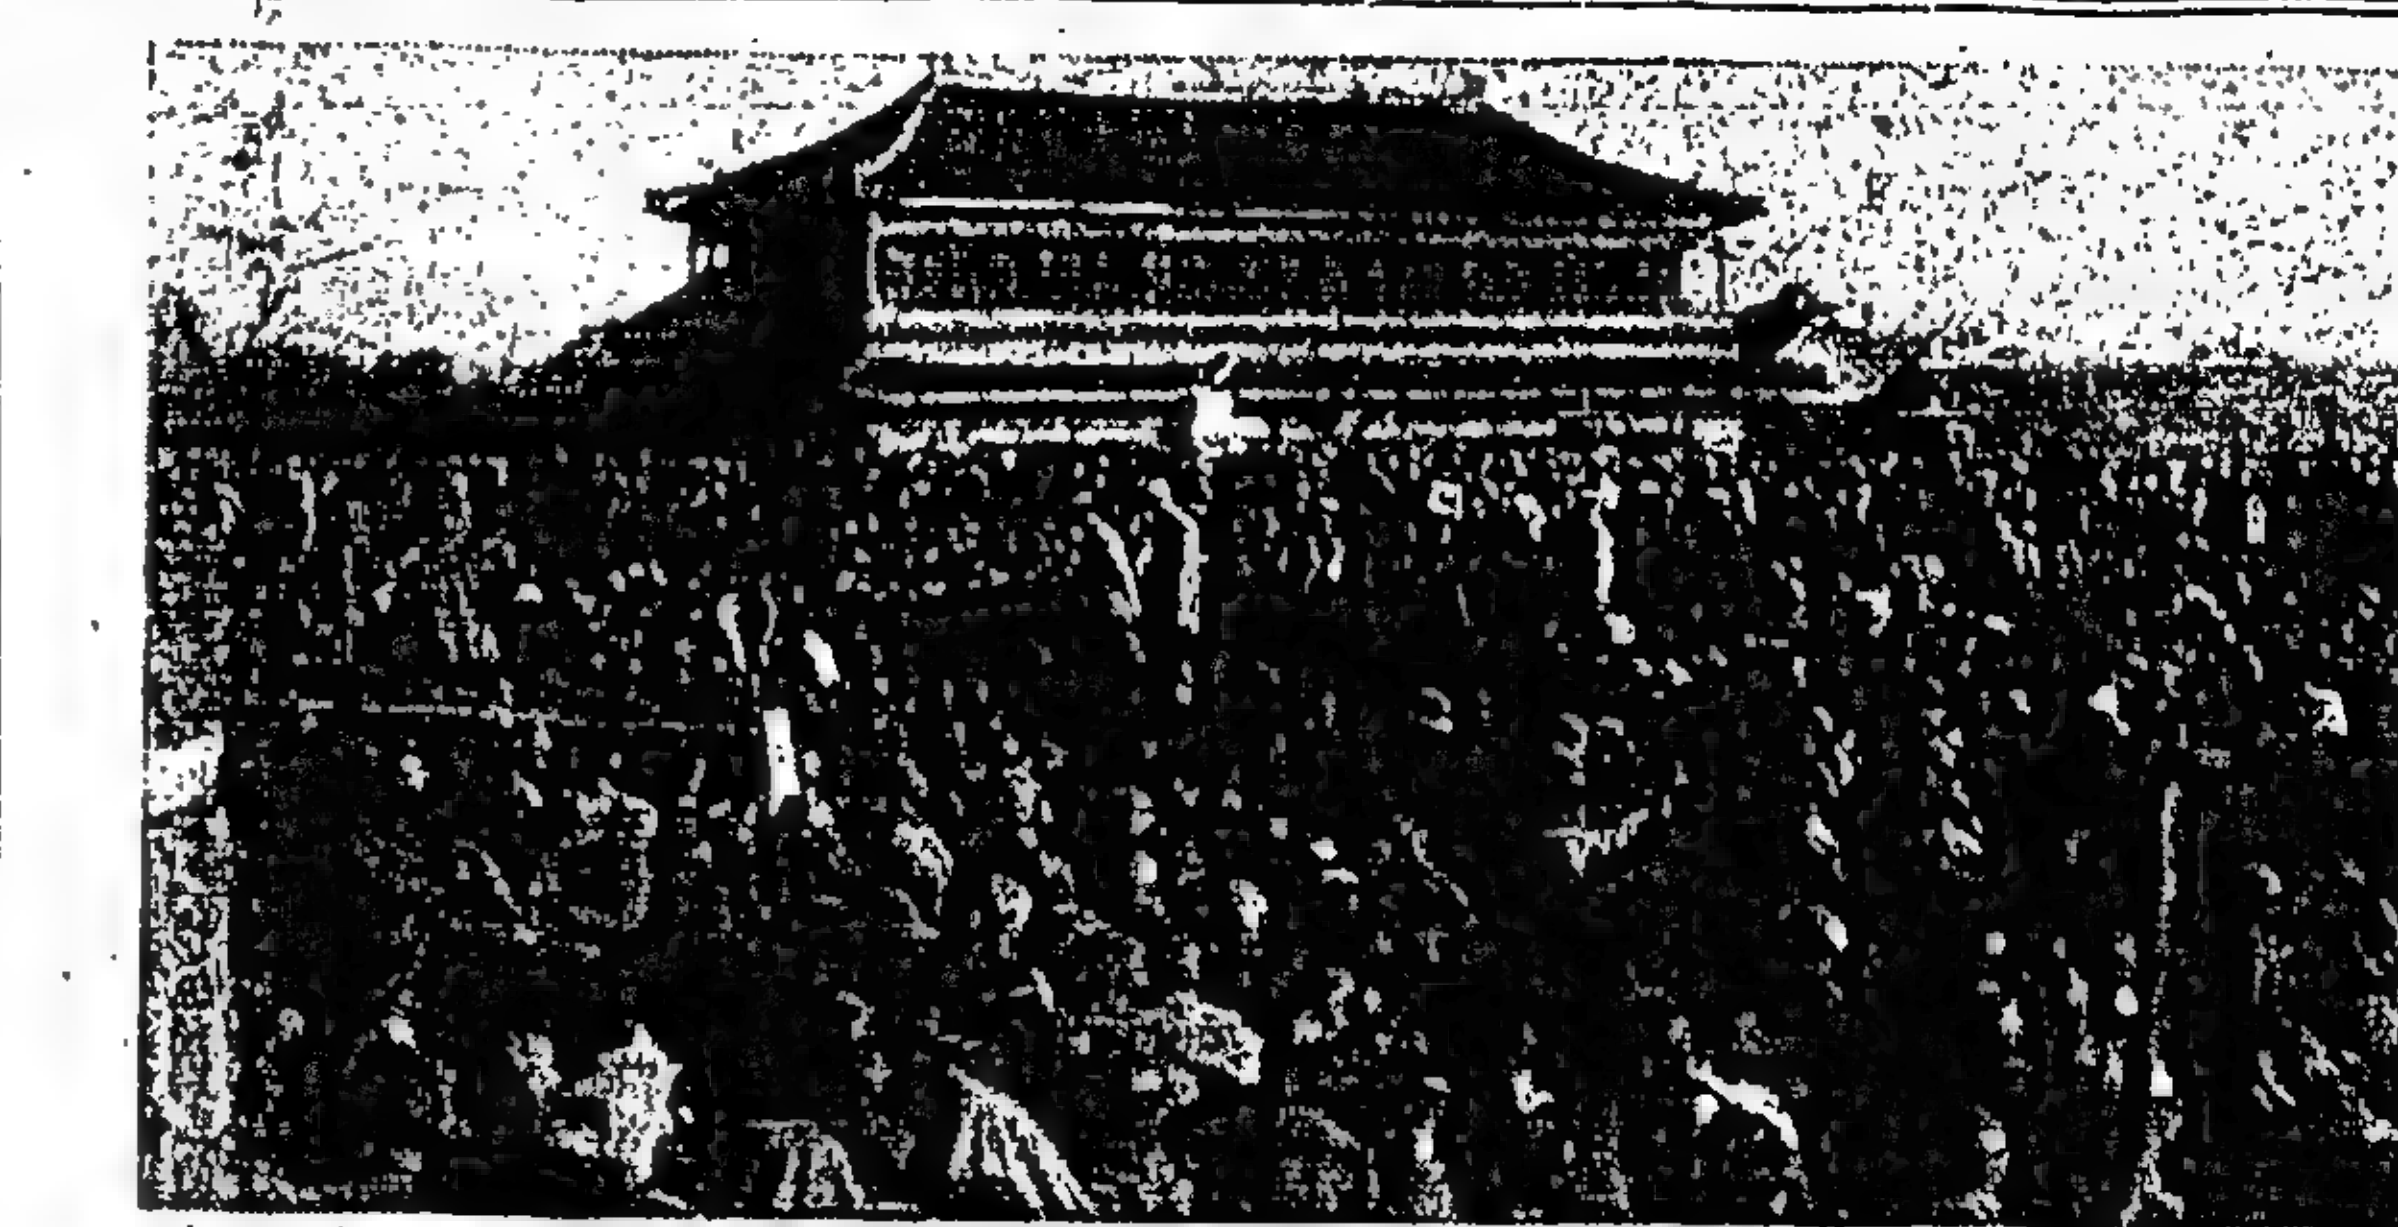

Two small rubber balloons, filled with illicit opium, were found concealed on a Chinese who was arrested at the Canton Wharf yesterday by the Revenue Department. One of the containers was in the man's mouth and the other tied round his waist.

On his appearance before Mr. Schofield at the Central Police Court this morning, Revenue Officer W. Ward charged the man with possession of 13 taels of prepared opium.

The defendant, who said he was formerly a cook in the employ of Sir Robert Ho Tung, was fined $150.

Another man who was arrested in possession of 46 taels of prepared opium on the same wharf was fined $1,300.

The wedding will shortly take place between Mr. Adolpho Mario Ghilain Philippens, insurance agent, of 5, Kent Road, Kowloon Tong, and Miss Elizabeth Maude Witcheil, 7, Suffolk Road, Kowloon Tong.

With the feeling between China and Japan still tense over the Manchuria problem, special interest attaches to this picture, which was taken during the week of prayer for peace held by the Panchen Lama, spiritual head of Tibet, in the Forbidden City of Peking. At least 100,000 people attended the ceremony daily.

IRELAND'S TROUBLES

RAILWAY STRIKE THREATENED

NEW YEAR WAGE CUT DISPUTE

(Our Own Correspondent).

(By Telegraph. Copyright. Telegraphic Message Ordinance, 1924. Received, Nov. 28, 9.14 a.m.)

London, Nov. 27.

The Irish Free State is now faced with the prospect of a Christmastide railway strike, likely to bring the entire railway system to a standstill.

The railwaymen are up in arms following a decision of the Wages Board to impose a reduction of wages and salaries by ten per cent. as from December 31.

Big meetings of railway workers were held all over the country to-day, over a hundred meetings being organised, and at every meeting without exception, a decision was reached not to accept the reduction.

Speakers pointed to the increasing cost of living as the result of the tariff war with Britain, although, of course, the wage cut decision arises from the same cause, falling receipts consequent upon the stifling of trade with Britain.

STRIKE NEXT WEEK?

Dublin, Nov. 28.

Six hundred railwaymen at Bray Co. Dublin, have decided to strike on December 5 as a protest against the proposed ten per cent. wage cut. Similar declarations all over the country are inevitable unless the Government intervenes.—Reuter.

London, Nov. 27.

It is not expected that Mr. Daniel Buckley, the new Governor-General of the Irish Free State, will proceed to London to kiss hands in audience with the King upon his appointment.

The Commission concerning his appointment has been sent to Dublin and the impression is that, accordingly, Mr. Buckley has been installed in office.

CIVIL WAR IN KWEICHOW

HEAVY CASUALTIES TO PROVINCIAL TROOPS

CAPITAL TAKEN

Shanghai, Nov. 28.

The vernacular press contain vivid reports of an outbreak of civil war in Kweichow, to the north of Kwangsi.

The reports state that the forces of Mao Kwang-hsiang, former chairman of the Kweichow provincial government, have captured the provincial capital, Kweichow, driving out the present chairman, Gen. Wang Chia-lich.

The fall of the capital followed fierce fighting, in which the provincial troops suffered severe casualties.—Reuter.

WORK OF XIXTH ARMY

CHIEF OF STAFF IN HONGKONG

General Haung Keung, the Chief of Staff of the Nineteenth Route Army, has arrived in Hongkong from Fukien. In a brief interview with the Press he said that since last May the Nineteenth Route Army had proceeded with the suppression of bandits in Fukien and despite the fact that the bandit-infested areas covered a vast territory, including the Chungchow, Changchow and Lung-yen regions, the Province has been gradually restored to stability and peace. He added that the newly-organised village guards were co-operating splendidly with the soldiers.

The Nineteenth Route Army would next proceed with the building of roads linking important cities to facilitate the transportation of troops during their operations against the bandits. The road connecting Changchow and Lung-yen, 240 miles, would be completed within three months, while that connecting Foochow and Changchow would be made suitable for motor traffic.

The typhoon is probably situated about 200 miles north-east of Manila, moving northward. Fresh monsoon will prevail along the coast and over the Northern China Sea. Local forecast:—N.E. winds, fresh; fine.

SHADOW OF TROTSKY

SOVIET REPORTED UNEASY

STILL FEAR HIS INFLUENCE

(Our Own Correspondent).

(By Telegraph. Copyright. Telegraphic Message Ordinance, 1924. Received, Nov. 28, 9.14 a.m.)

London, Nov. 27.

The visit of M. Leon Trotsky to the Baltic States is reported to be causing some uneasiness to the Soviet Government.

According to messages from Stockholm, the Soviet authorities are taking special precautions and it is even suggested that Trotsky's own precautions, against agents of the dreaded OGPU are not based entirely upon imaginary fears.

When Trotsky is visiting Lund University in December he will be nearer to his native Russia than he has been since he was exiled in 1928 and the activities of the Soviet suggest that his influence is still feared by his opponents.

HIGH FEE FOR LECTURE.

Copenhagen Nov. 28.

Double the previous highest Transatlantic broadcast fee was paid to M. Trotsky for a lecture on Communism broadcast to the United States.

A large force of police guarded the hall from which the lecture was delivered.—Reuter.

MURDER CHARGE

ONE OF THREE MEN DISCHARGED

Charged with murder in connexion with the recent outrage at Chungshawan, Leung Fuk, Fung Lo and Ho Wai-cho made another appearance before Mr. Butters at the Kowloon Magistracy this morning.

Mr. C. Y. Kwan represented the first defendant, Leung Fuk, who was additionally charged with conspiracy to steal a lunk.

Mr. J. A. Fraser, Assistant Attorney General, appeared for the prosecution, and intimated that he had no evidence against Mr. Kwan's client, who was accordingly discharged.

The case against the other two defendants was formally remanded for one week.

MANCHURIA

LEAGUE'S PLAN OF ACTION

COMMITTEE OF NINETEEN

MEETING TO-DAY

Geneva, Nov. 26.

It is reliably learned that it has been practically decided to call together the Committee of Nineteen on Monday and that the Assembly of the League will be convened to deal with the Manchuria dispute a fortnight hence.

The belief prevails that the League Assembly will eventually adopt a resolution declining recognition of Manchukuo, thus directly or by implication condemning Japanese recognition, and that this will be followed by seeking Chinese guarantees under international supervision for Japanese interests in Manchuria.

SUGGESTED PROCEDURE.

It is gathered that the procedure will be that the Council submit the question to the Chairman of the Committee of Nineteen which will formally decide when the Assembly should be called, which, it is believed, will probably be the week after next.

Probably the League Assembly will first adopt certain chapters of the Lytton Report, containing statements of facts and pass on to the study of resolutions, and recommendations which will be sent to the Committee of Nineteen where the real battle will be fought out.

TSINGTAO-TSINAN RAILWAY

CHINA AND SLUMP IN THE YEN

(Special to "Telegraph.")

(By Telegraph. Copyright. Telegraphic Message Ordinance, 1924. Received, Nov. 28, 9.14 a.m.)

In view of the slump of the Yen, Chinese leaders are making a renewed effort to raise funds to resume the Tsingtao-Tsinan Railway, which Japan agreed, at the Washington Conference, to restore to China on payment of forty million yen.

The purchase, at this time, would involve China in the payment of only half the number of dollars required with the Yen on the gold standard.—Reuter.

TEA RESTRICTION SCHEME

FINAL AGREEMENT REPORTED

London, Nov. 28. The Financial Times learns from its Amsterdam correspondent that an agreement has practically been reached on the tea restrictions scheme.

The Indian, Ceylon and Dutch Indies Governments have promised their co-operation and an official communiqué is expected shortly.—Reuter.

ECONOMIC PARLEY.

EUROPEAN STATES TO HOLD PREPARATORY MEETING

THE WORLD OF WOMEN

This Fitted, Lace-Trimmed
Nightgown is Topped by a Chic Little Jacket

By Joan Savoy

If you have this aquamarine nightgown in your wardrobe, you won't mind it half so much if you have to stay at home and convalesce while everyone else dons gay sports clothes and dashes away to golf and motor. The gown, which is trimmed in ecru lace, has a little jacket which ties in front, and sleeves that puff just above the elbows.

The nightgown itself, which is fitted, has little tucks down the front in a sun-burst effect. It is lavishly trimmed with lace all around the low V-shaped neck, and just above the puffs of the jacket. The full skirt and train are fashioned entirely from lace.

The gown, because of its fitted fullness, will give you luxurious feeling of comfort that will make your dreams just twice as interesting if you decide to doze off while you are wearing it.

BEAUTY HINTS.

Good Grooming is A Test of Pride.

Many a smart woman has got away with making good grooming take the place of beauty.

Of course it is a lot of trouble. But isn't it worth the effort if you end up with an enviable reputation for being smart?

French women know the value of careful grooming. They never worry about the shape of their noses, colour of their hair or eyes or even their figures. They merely accept themselves and bend every effort to capitalize on every good point.

This year when white touches give the snap to black or dark costumes, never, never step out unless said touches are pristinely white.

Now that some hats are worn this way and others that, be sure you know exactly at what angle, if any, your hat is to be tilted, and tilt it!

Hair makes more difference this year than it has for ages. Keep it well-groomed looking. Take time out to fix it right every time you take off or put on a hat. Watch for straggling hairs and pat them into place.

More fundamental and quite as important as outward appearance is fastidiousness in your personal grooming.

If the woman lives to-day who doesn't take a daily bath she should be ashamed herself. You can take one, an effective sponge, with only a teaspoon of water, if you have to.

Daily deodorant almost should be prescribed by law, if women

FASHION'S NEW TWIST.

Frock with Back in Front.

A frock which is apparently worn back to front is the newest fashion phenomenon in a season which has been responsible for many unusual styles.

Women, being naturally inconsistent, will probably find the new dress very attractive. It attracted a great deal of attention recently at a dress show given by Jaeger's at a luncheon party at the Malmison restaurant in London. Not only did it fasten down the back, but the collar was under the chin, and tapered to a modified "V" at the nape of the neck, instead of vice versa.

Another striking frock had balloon sleeves as large as any worn by those daring damsels of the nineties who defied convention by cycling round Hyde Park.

An original muff was made in a large flat circle to match the large collar of fur and material worn with a coat. An amusing note was struck by knitted "stocking top" caps which, worn with some of the town and country clothes, recalled old-fashioned nightcaps, but are likely to be serious rivals of the beret.—VICTORIA CHAPPELLE in Exchange.

haven't enough pride to use it every night or morning, or both. Daily fresh underwear is quite as important as personal cleanliness.

Good grooming is really a test of self-pride. Why not show the world that you think highly of yourself?—By ALICIA HART.

NEW GOWN FLOWERS.

Paper Blooms That Will Not Crush.

Paper flowers in natural colourings are the latest trimming on evening frocks.

They are the invention of an Englishwoman and are, I am told, uncrushable and almost untearable. The colourings are so perfect that it was difficult to believe they were artificial when they were shown on some of the frocks in the Peter Russell collection recently.

Taffeta petticoats are being worn with many evening gowns this year. They rustle most alluringly, and now it is for Miss 1932 to decide whether, after all, a petticoat is really modern enough for her.—V. C. in Exchange.

FASHION'S LATEST WHIM

Fashion's latest whim is hand-crocheted gloves. They are made with fine silk thread and the finest steel crochet-hook.

Irish patterns are chiefly favoured, but some wrist length samples are worked all over in a simple chain and picot pattern with a close double crochet border.

Some white kid gloves have deep wide gauntlets of hand crochet in mercerized cotton, in a cobweb design. In this case the lace is slightly stiffened so that the gauntlets stand well out.

The flimsiest of flimsy gloves are those in doubled fine black silk not with ruffles at the elbow.

FASHION NOTES.

Fuller Skirts Again.

All the new dayclothes are undoubtedly longer, though not likely ever to attain ankle-length. The dressmakers in the new collections seem to have answered in the affirmative the vexed question, "Does a long skirt accentuate youth or not?"

The new evening dresses are tubelike, and have widening flares from the knees downwards. They hide the limbs, envelop ankles, and render feet almost invisible.

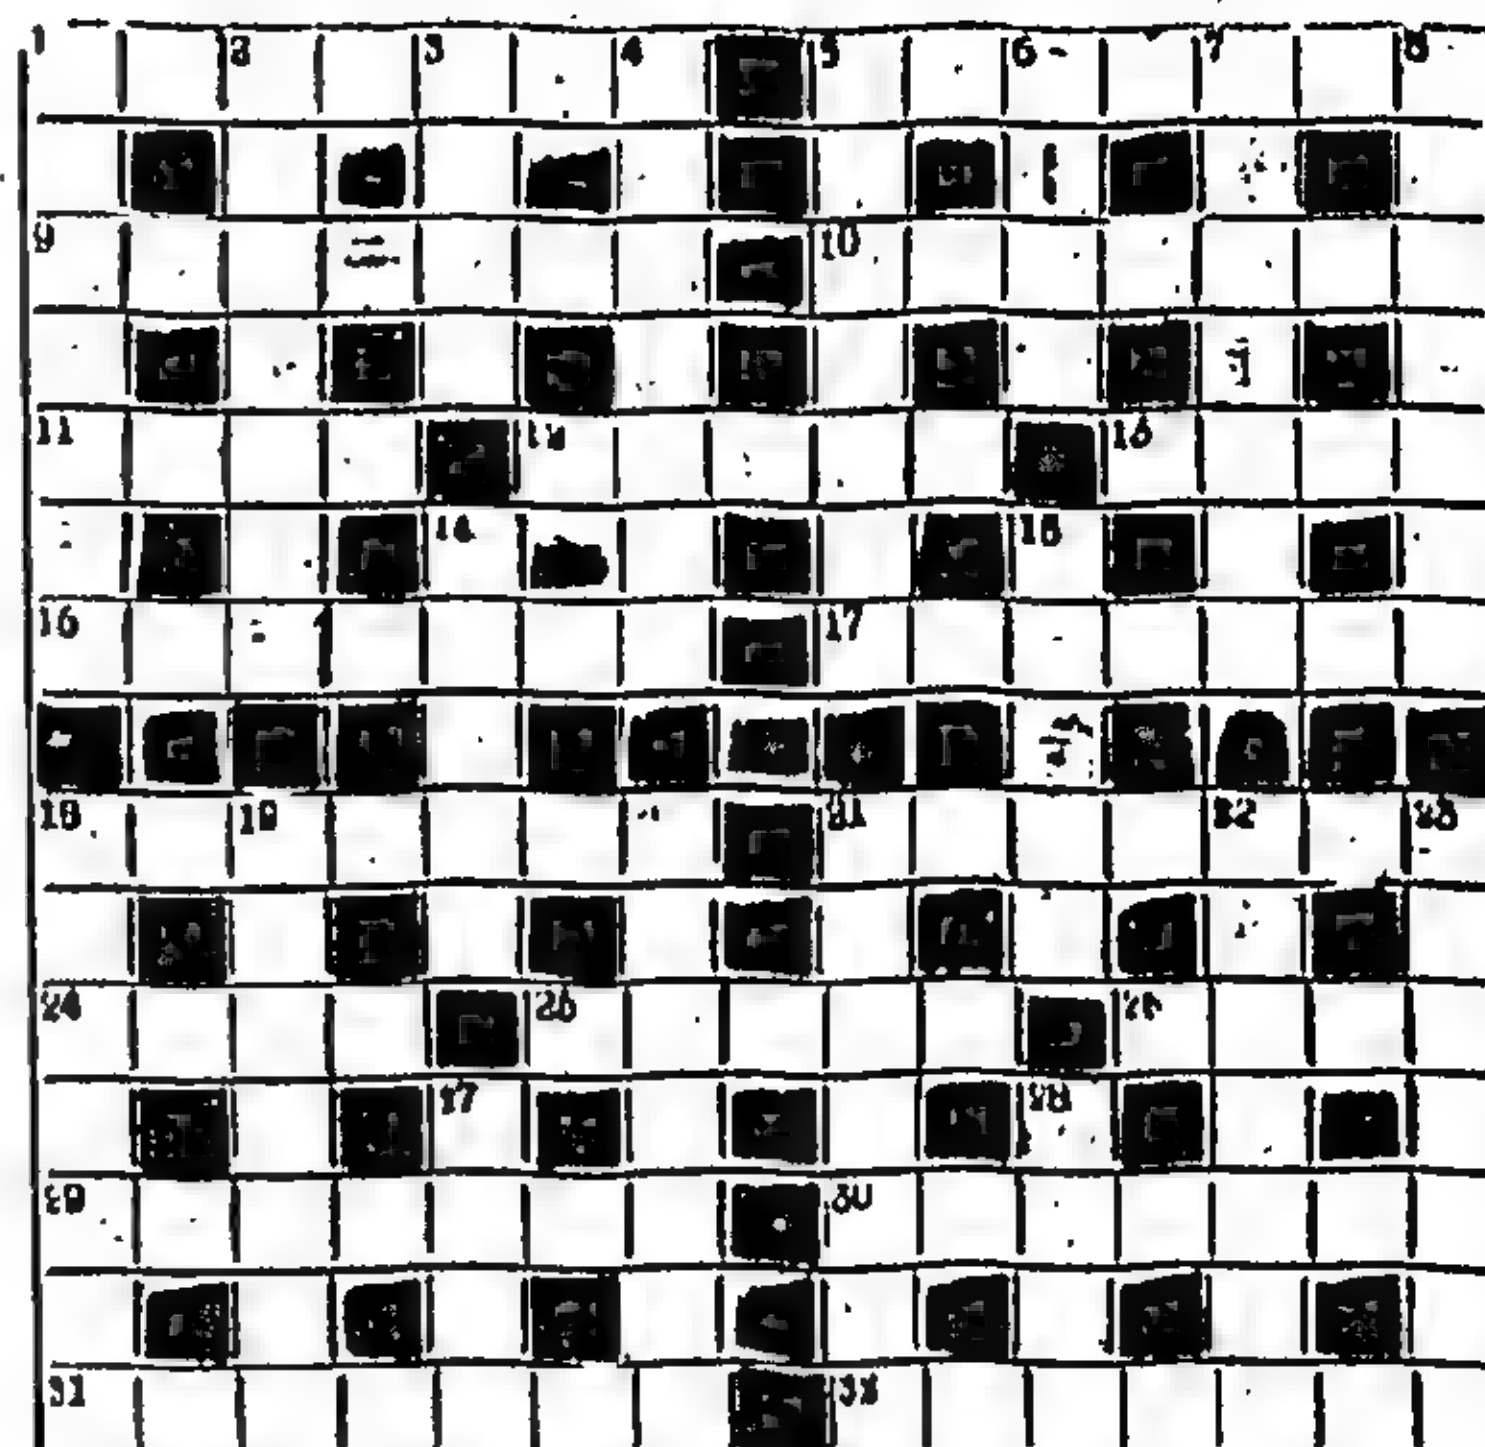

One of the big events of autumn and winter styles in Paris will be the frock and the ensemble, in at least two colours. The day-length evening ensemble belongs to the new movement, and it is going triumphantly along, carrying the banner of next season's smartness.

Fuller skirts, starched ruffles on evening sleeves, rustic guimpes, ruffles on evening décolletages, collarettes, and scarves are shown. For afternoon and evening wear the artificial velvets are enormously important. They have improved greatly, and their intense lustre makes them oddly effective. They shine like polished metal.

SHADED NECKLACES.

Twisted necklaces grow more and more popular, and the newest designs are of shaded beads. The beads are tiny and many strands are twisted or plaited together, while the darkest colour comes in the front and the beads shade to a lighter tone at each side. Brown and green necklaces treated in this manner are most attractive.

CALL of the WEST

BY R. G. MONTGOMERY

CHAPTER XXXIII

Stan Ball seated himself on the grass facing his prisoner. "Better sit down and rest a few minutes," he said.

Dona sat down and propped her chin in her hands to steady herself. She could not look Ball in the face. She did not regret for a moment saving him from the mob but she did hate to have to admit that she could not go through with her threat to exact the heaviest penalty of him. Her weakness of the past hour irritated her and made her determined to hate Stan more thoroughly than ever. She knew this would be impossible if she looked at him or let him make her talk.

Several minutes passed. Then Dona said in a low voice, "I am ready now."

Stan got up and whistled softly to the black mare. He helped Dona into the saddle and she willingly accepted this assistance. Leaping up behind her, Stan headed the mare around the steep slope, for he would have to take a roundabout route to the timber camp. Only the foolhardy daring of his errand could save him. He was worried, too, for fear some excitable lumber man might see the black mare and take a shot at them, injuring the girl. For Stan had given himself up completely to the realization that he was utterly in love with Dona.

They cut back, dodging in and out for several miles. Every stride of the black mare carried them into territory that was deadly for Stan, but he smiled grimly and urged the horse on. As they entered the cutover ground with its scant cover he began to whistle a bit of a tune under his breath. Dona was silent but she let him hold her firmly when they crossed washes and fallen logs.

They were making a dash across an open space when a rifle cracked to their right and a spurt of dust rose almost under the flying hoofs of the mare. Stan spoke sharply and the lithe animal darted to the side and leaped into a thicket of alder and berry bushes. From this cover Stan sent her plunging into a dense growth of aspens. Dona had suddenly become very much alive.

Stan pulled up and slid to the ground. He jerked out his gun and stood ready to ward off an attack.

"I have been taking you in," the girl said slowly. "I intended to let them capture us." She met Stan's gaze for the first time. Suddenly she burst out angrily, "You'd ride right into camp with me!" Her lips trembled.

He shook his head negatively. "No. I am to take you to the edge of the clearing and then make my get-away. I don't care to commit suicide now." His grey eyes held hers.

"You are going to leave me here!" The fool that fired at us can take me in," Dona's eyes lowered and she flushed deeply.

"It will be worth the trouble to take you the rest of the way," Stan grinned. "The lady and I" (he motioned to his horse) will enjoy a bit more excitement." A thrashing in the brush warned them that several men were hot on their trail. Dona still sat in the saddle and Ball leaped up behind her. With a short laugh he sent the horse flying through the brush. Angry shouts floated down to them but no shots were fired.

The cover was beginning to thin. Suddenly a man rose from behind a boulder just ahead. He was balancing a rifle in the hollow of his arm and listening. It was evident that he had heard the galloping mare and was trying to locate them. Stan changed their course to the right and up the slope where they could keep to cover. Finally he pulled up and whistled softly.

"The woods are full of lumberjacks," he said grimly. "There's one just ahead in that patch of timber and there is another just above us."

Dona did not reply for a moment. "I'll get down and walk out into the open," she said firmly.

"I have something to say to you," Stan interrupted.

"Not now!" Dona was suddenly afraid of what he was about to tell her.

"I have to get it off my chest," he insisted.

"But you are literally surrounded and may be shot at any minute."

Dona was on the verge of nervous collapse again.

"I'm used to tight pinches. This isn't half bad," Ball smiled evenly.

"Take the horse and make a break back up the trail," Dona almost pleaded.

"Not until I tell you." He held her in the saddle when she started to slide to the ground.

MOONLIGHT, a picturesque mountain camp, a pretty girl and a dashing cowboy. With such romantic elements of course there's a love story in "Call of the West" by R. G. Montgomery. There's adventure and excitement too in this thrilling new serial.

"Please go!" she begged. Visions of the last few hours of Sworin's gang and the narrow escape this man had made from lynching were flaming before her eyes. She did not care what he was or what he had done, she wanted him to live. With an unreasoning urge Dona wanted him to escape unharm.

"I couldn't get a 100 yards on horseback," Ball spoke calmly, looking up at her.

"Hurry! Tell me," she cried.

"I give you my promise on oath to leave this country and not to return," he said, holding her eyes.

"Then go!" she urged.

"I'll send you down to the camp on the mare but I'll have to have her to get away." He hesitated a second then hurried on. "I'll come down to the patch of timber behind the main building tonight at 9. Can you have the mare there?"

Dona met his questioning gaze squarely. "I can't take her. I will walk," she insisted.

"You must take her! It's my only chance. If we wait here much longer I won't need her."

"I'll meet you," Dona said simply.

Stan slapped the mare across her flank. "Hike, lady!" he called softly to the horse.

The black mare laid back her ears and whirled. Dona had to hang on to keep from being tossed off. Down through the timber and into the open they sped. Men appeared from hiding and watched her go. When they saw that she was alone they turned their attention to the cover she had just quitted and began to circle around it.

Dona pulled up and watched them hemming in the spot where she had left Stan Ball. With wildly beating heart she waited. At that moment she realized that had Ball asked her to ride away with him she would have gone.

A rider burst from the timber and galloped toward her. It was Dudley and he was dishevelled and dusty, the first time she had seen him so. Since coming to Three Rivers.

"Dona!" he shouted.

The girl faced him mechanically and headed the black mare in his direction. At her side, Dudley leaped from his saddle.

A WORKERS' PROBLEM

The position of the "general worker" in England at the moment, when so many men are unemployed, is the subject of much concern just now. Prior to 1889, the organisation of labour was expressed primarily through the craft trades, the rest of the workers being largely regarded as labourers. Machinery had not been developed to the point it has since, and the volume of heavy manual labour was then much greater. From those days, when the public was forced to realise the existence of the general labourer class, a recognition has developed that there are really very few "unskilled workers." Every machine that is invented brings into force, even in repetition work, a new kind of skill. In the process of changing from the older to the newer process, this class of worker has probably been found most adaptable in equipping modern industries. Such workers are, in fact, a tremendous economic asset to the nation, though the insecurity of their employment is one of the country's greatest problems.

million working days are lost every day. That means that the highest number employed on any one day of the insured population is roughly eight millions. These figures will enable us to realise the dread that hangs over a very large proportion of the country's insured population, because it is not the same people who are out of work; there is a constant change over taking place. It has been well said that the worst thing for a race is to destroy hope; the dread of want is the worst fear of all. Insecurity too often destroys those fine qualities of hope and ambition, and of zest for accomplishment, with which the worker goes out into the world. At the same time, the influence of modern machinery, combined with the various wage schemes devised, tends to turn the workers from citizens to robots. And when industry lags, it is the general worker who first has to be dispensed with. At present, despite all the unemployment, thousands of people are working six and seven days a week, and this raises the question whether some better distribution of labour is not possible. Industry should reduce the utilisation of labour forces to just as much a science as the timing of machines, the costing of power, and the utilisation of other resources. Every day a worker is out of employment, two results are produced: firstly a steady demoralisation due to mental anxiety; secondly, a waste of skill that cannot be estimated in money.

A leading industrialist in the United States was asked at the time of the boom what he thought would be the minimum capital value of a well-trained skilled craftsman. He made some calculations and said that every time Great Britain sent them a man of that type she was making them a present in capital value of several thousands of pounds. If that is so, no-one can estimate the terrible waste of one of Britain's greatest national assets—the skill of her people—which is going on at the present time. To destroy the skill of the parents, is to damage the future of the child. The ambition of the child is often to succeed the parent and go one better in the craft or occupation that has had such a dominant effect upon him. Take away the example and influence that feeds this ambition and irreparable loss is caused to the nation. If we take this mass of labour, all of which is skilled in one way or another, although coming under the term "general worker" the insecurity and competition associated with it and the lack of comprehension by the State of the resources they are wasting, presents a terrible modern tragedy.

Hamlet—Amateur Detective.

If Shakespeare were contemporary, he doubtless would have been included with the other defendants at a mock trial of detective-story writers which was held recently at the London School of Economics, for the Bard of Avon was a master of the fascinating craft. In parenthesis it may be permissible to ask why such woeful lack of collaboration apparently exists between the detective of fiction—meaning, of course, his alter ego, the author—and his prototype of Scotland Yard. To the anxious reader chafing impatiently at the bit until next week's instalment shall forever put to rest all doubt as to who the girl with the green hat really was, or answer the all-important question why the butler slipped the bolt which let the burglar pass, the curious inaptitude of the police in failing to use such amazing and gratuitous acumen as the novelists furnish seems little short of criminal. Such inconsequential details as merely concrete evidence, or its utter lack, for instance, never give a moment's pause to the facile fabricator of the detective in the story. When clues evaporate and float away into the thinnest ether, he presents no unwritten page to dis-

DAY BY DAY

A MAN HAS NO MORE RIGHT TO SAY AN UNLAWFUL THING, THAN TO ACT ONE; NO MORE RIGHT TO SAY A RUDDY THING TO ANOTHER, THAN TO KNOCK HIM DOWN.—Johnson.

There will be a whist drive for service men in the west lounge of the Y.M.C.A., Kowloon, at 9 p.m. to-night.

The Crown Colonist announces the appointment of Mr. G. S. Wilson to be a police probationer in Hongkong.

A Chinese woman attempted suicide yesterday by jumping into the harbour from Yau-mai Ferry wharf. Rescued by Kwok Lo, on a sampin in the vicinity, she was sent to the Government Civil Hospital.

In the current Central Theatre attraction, "Good Night Vienna," Jack Buchanan, well-known English actor, heads a notable British cast. The production is conceived on light lines—there is no painful suspense—and the music set to these lines is gay and catchy, and portrays the life of the Austrian capital before the War. The big attendances during the week-end were well-satisfied.

The Health bulletin of Eastern Ports for the week ended November 19 shows the following cases of infectious diseases and deaths therefrom: Plague, Baitut 5 cases, Rangoon 1 case, Colombo 2 cases 2 deaths, Cherrapunji 15 cases 6 deaths, Small-pox, Alexandria 8 cases 4 deaths, Aden 1 imported case, Baghdad 14 cases 5 deaths, Basrah 27 cases 17 deaths, Bombay 10 cases 3 deaths, Calcutta 19 cases 8 deaths, Madras 24 cases 4 deaths, Nagapattam 2 cases 1 death, Rangoon 1 case, Tuticorin 8 cases 2 deaths, Pondicherry 2 cases 2 deaths, Canton 14 cases 1 death.

appointed readers. Straightway he turns to his ever ready, handy index file and there finds another clue that maybe served him well in such emergency before, or invents a new one with which he picks the lock of a strong box chock-full of circumstantial but quite convicting evidence. Against such incurable inventiveness and ready resource, contrast the prosy fussiness of those at headquarters who squelch the inquisitive news reporter's ardour with an empty bluster and gruff, laconic statement, "Nothing broke today." At the London mock trial the charge of "faking the evidence" was preferred against some of Britain's favourite and modern detective-story writers. Tell it not in Gath, neither whisper it in circles Shakespearean or Baconian, but should not similar accusation, if justice be impartial, be levelled at the great bard himself? When he made Hamlet hire a troupe of strolling actors to perform a one-act play depicting circumstantial evidence of his uncle's dereliction, which he, Hamlet, had written overnight, Shakespeare started the detective story on its unending way and made the Prince of Denmark the world's original Sherlock Holmes.

GERMANY TO-DAY

What the Man in the Street is Thinking

By GORDON SHERIDAN

I AM writing in a private house in the very heart of Germany after having toured the country. I have visited Constance, Dresden, Berlin, Cologne, Hanover and other leading cities.

There is this to be said for the average German citizen—he is not floundering in the morass of pessimism. Nor is over-optimism dragging him too far the other way. He is simply tightening his belt, determined to carry on as best he may.

Two men are out of work in Germany for every one in Britain. The dole is being continually cut down. A man who earned £3 when in work may get only six shillings, and that for only a limited period. After six months of initial benefit, the dole is no longer paid by the Government, but is granted by purely Local Authorities, who may as likely as not be bankrupt.

There are half a million in Germany who receive neither work nor the dole. Those who have not been hit by labour depression have been harmed by the constantly fluctuating markets.

The banks are no longer closed, but grievous harm was wrought during those fateful three days when money simply could not be obtained. Once respectable citizens have been reduced to beggary, it is no unusual sight to see outside one of the few German theatres that keep the flag of dramatic art still flying gentlemen of princely mien paying to go into the gallery.

I have spoken to a German ex-Princess who now lives principally on cats' meat!

The superficial may fail to appreciate Berlin's plight. The Berliners say that at all costs one must hide the outward signs of bankruptcy. The street cafes are crowded in the evenings by smartly dressed throngs. They have gone without their dinners so that they may drink coffee in glamorous surroundings. The bands play in the beer gardens, and the former customers stand on the street pavement to enjoy the music.

Back to the Land.

In provincial Germany the signs of want are yet more apparent. There are no traffic hold-ups of private cars such as one may see in Britain. There is no week-end exodus to the seaside or the country. There is an exodus, but it is of another kind. A "back to the land" movement has set in. Poor pay on the farms is preferable to city gutters.

I have met many men from British internment camps who have only good to say of the treatment they received, and these ex-prisoners make good ambassadors for us. But, all the same, there is faith in Hitler.

The average German citizen sees in Hitler's policy a return to pre-war conditions. And if the term "pre-war" stands for paradise in Britain, it stands for something more in Germany.

Foodstuffs are cheap. One can get a three-course meal in a first-class restaurant for a mark. Cabbages are a penny each, and sandwiches and beer can easily be obtained for fourpence.

A shirt equivalent to anything obtainable in London costs five shillings or less. One can purchase a suit of clothes for little more than a pound. But against this fall in prices one is faced with the increasing, ever increasing, taxation.

The German is taxed on his income, on his food, on all his beverages but milk and beer. He adds to the revenue if he goes to a theatre, to a cinema, to a dance hall, or to a restaurant. German car taxes are the world highest, being in the neighbourhood of £50 per annum.

Further, German taxpayers who fail to pay their taxes promptly must pay interest on the arrears at the rate of 36 per cent. per annum. Not so long ago the rate was 120 per cent!

To her credit, Germany has not allowed her musicians to be swept away by the tide of talkies, but thousands of bank clerks are out of work through the installation of machines in offices.

Ready to Help.

The plain man takes it all philosophically. When possible, he helps his neighbours. I have heard a beggar make a little speech on an underground train. In Britain he would have received very little, but every German hand was ready with a mite to help him.

Frankfurt has a "Neighbours' Aid Association." Various districts subscribe to give the unemployed one square meal a day.

Churches are disposing of their sacred ornaments so that they may help in the work of charity.

In Britain we have not yet come to this pass. The majority can generally "manage." In Germany, "management" is frequently impossible.

So all the cities are losing their inhabitants. Those having family ties in little villages are returning to their own kin. And there is in some quarters a perpetual fear—of war, both civil or from without.

France remains a menace in the German mind. Russia is feared on the other side. "We are almost defenceless," said an Army officer to me. "We hold mock battles and mimic warfare every other week, so that our soldiers shall be as near to military perfection as possible, but what if war comes from outside? Our strength is so puny, we are defenceless."

And if it comes from within? As I write, Germany is about to be plunged into another election, with the inevitable concomitant of street battles and bloodshed—and this only a few days after the first meeting of the new Parliament.

Faith in Hitler.

Downstairs, a typical middle-class family listen with bated breath to the edicts of von Papen as he speaks over the radio to all Germany. "Hitler!" they say. "Hitler must get in this time. And then . . . we shall see."

Faith in Hitler grows by leaps and bounds. Little children have learned the Nazi salute. In this village every other house flies the Hitler flag, with its sinister sign, the "Hakenkreuz." One sees it chalked up on walls and doorways, even on shop-windows.

Jews who were born in Germany are being forced to flee the country to escape from merciless persecution.

There is no enmity against Britain. Hatred increases against France and Russia, but if anything the "England" is admired. In every town one finds English clubs where the youth of Germany may practise the language and perhaps discuss British style and British games.

OTTAWA

By Edward Kelly,

Ours is a hard life, ours is. Take yesterday, for instance. We were told to interview Mr. Guzlewzle, the well-known local motor-car retailer, about the Ottawa Agreement.

"Got to see him? I'll be out of here," said Mr. Guzlewzle, greeting us affectionately. "The xx 11 automobile industry in Hongkong is well ruined. Ottawa!"

"Thank you, Mr. Guzlewzle," we said, and came back to the Telegraph and wrote: "The beneficial effects of the Ottawa Agreement are already making themselves felt in Hongkong. So busy was Mr. Guzlewzle that he could not spare the time to be interviewed."

Anyway, if the Ottawa agreement has done nothing else it has knitted the bonds of discord. Which is almost an epigram. An epigram is something smaller than a kilogram, although not as big as a programme. (Programme— from the Latin "pro," meaning professional, and "gramme" your grandmother. A professional grandmother.)

It has also planted the seed of free trade within the Empire. We (Continued on Page 2.)

CORRESPONDENCE.

A Question To The Peace Society.

[To the Editor, Hongkong Telegraph.]

Sir—The vigour and activity of Hongkong's Peace Society compel one's attention and serious interest. Mr. Baldwin's recent speech in the House has drawn everyone's attention to the peril of the world. The fear of war is one of which neither military nor naval men, nor the ordinary citizen need be ashamed when it is no longer one's own life, nor that of other combatants which is jeopardised, but that of our women and children. Pictures in the illustrated papers of the preparations which Germany and other European nations are making against gas attack help us to visualise something of the horrors that await us. Yet the grim fact remains that so far the intelligence and will of the world has evolved no effective safeguard against the peril. So long as there are sufficient reasons for strife, nothing will prevent the next war. We have it in embryo already in Manchuria. If at Geneva Japan refuses the restraint of the League she may be tempted, as indeed her statesmen have threatened, to withdraw and then, on the principle that it is as well to be hanged for a sheep as for a lamb, declare war on China and pursue her well-known ambitions there. To take another case: Italy is a member of the League, and a signatory of the Kellogg Pact yet Signor Mussolini makes no secret of his view that the days of War are far from over.

I wish to suggest to the Peace Society, with whose aims I am in close sympathy, that while doubtless the first step in its work, irrespective of how effective its propaganda may immediately be, is to lay down the general principle of opposition to all war, the second and very urgent step is to think out constructively the effective alternatives to war. This has been approached recently from one side by the Editor of the Hubert Journal, who in an article in the "Moral Equivalent for War" has shown clearly that just as War can, to an amazing extent, claim the last sacrifice of life itself, so there must be something in our conception of Peace which can claim the same final loyalty and surrender. I would approach it from another and more prosaic angle. Is there, in the present or in any proposed organisation for Peace, any provision for adjusting claims in equity as against claims in law that may arise between either nations of the world or classes or society? So far as I know there is not, at least as regards questions arising between the nations. Is not one of the reasons why the ideal of Peace fails to command immediate assent that its organisation so far seems to carry with it the stabilisation of the Status Quo? Are not the Treaty of Versailles and the Covenant of the League too inelastic to meet the developing needs of the nations? It may be the resurgence of national life and ambition in one nation, it may be the pressure of population in another. Is there provision yet in the world for adjudicating in such matters apart from the Peace? Must not the world press on—it may be through war, which God forbid—to the organisation of some League or super-state both powerful and flexible enough to take up and deal with such problems with impartiality?

It may be said that in the other case, of claims in equity between different classes of society, we are better provided against strife. This however, is problematical. There are signs that class war is even more likely to break out in some circumstances than international war. It may be claimed that the British Constitution gives sufficient scope for the representation of all classes. That is less true of other countries, and probably only the much abused and mis-named dolo has saved England itself from the peril of revolution in the last year or two. In any case we know that the Independent Labour Party has been working on the details of an organisation to take over when capitalism collapses. There are many who hate war to the very soul, who would still feel the call to this kind of war. It largely depends on how intimately one happens to know "how the other half of society lives". I have a friend who is a minister in a poor part of London—a man the latchet of whose shoes I am unworthy to stoop down and unlace. He is a University man, who won his half-blue for rowing. He is with a strict pacifist, having what the late Baron von Hügel once described in private (he was speaking of his daughter) as a synoptic piety! But the sorrows of the poor have bitten into his soul. In spite of his pacifism he would be hard to hold back if the poor were organised for revolution. I can imagine him rallying to the old Chartist

LEPER NOT WANTED BY VILLAGERS

Banished for life in 1922 following a term of seven years' hard labour for armed robbery, a Chinese who appeared before Mr. Schofield at the Central Police Court this morning was given a sentence of twelve months' imprisonment for disobeying the deportation order.

The defendant, who was arrested in the West Point District, was sent away for life after serving his term for armed robbery, and last year he was again arrested for theft. On the expiration of his sentence on that charge and one of returning from banishment, he was automatically deported.

In the case of a mendicant who was deported last month, the defendant stated that he returned to Hongkong because the villagers refused to allow him to remain in their midst, as he was suffering from leprosy. Sentence of six months' hard labour was imposed.

POLICE RESERVE

ORDERS FOR CURRENT WEEK

Orders by the Hon. Mr. E. D. C. Wolfe, C.M.G., Inspector General of Police, state:

Training Course—Part I.—All recruits of the Chinese Company will attend Central Police Station for Squad Drill on Thursday, December 1st at 5.30 p.m. Dress Blue Uniform and Cap with White Cover.

Emergency Unit Reserve

Defenda.—The defenda class will meet in the gymnasium at Central Police Station on Friday, December 2nd at 5.30 p.m. Members from other Reserve Units are cordially invited. (Sgd.) D. L. KING, D.S.P. (R).

Admirers of George Bancroft have another opportunity to see him in action in the current King's Theatre attraction "Lady and Gent." Bancroft, cast in the role of an ex-patriate climbing the social ladder, has a role well-adapted to the personality he has brought to the screen. Excellent dramatization and a well-balanced supporting cast, make the production one of unusual merits.

song of Francis Adams: Girls, that's the shout, the shout we shall utter. When, with rifles and spades, We stand with the old Red Flag affluter. On the barricades. Yours, etc., T. W. DOUGLAS JAMES, Wukingfo, Nov. 23.

A Question of Respect

Sir—Much as I dislike the popular pastime of criticising others, I feel I must do what I can to draw the attention of the community to the disrespect so frequently shown in this British Colony for His Majesty the King and to the many cases of selfish inconsideration which one sees during almost every visit to local theatres.

The following is a good example: Last evening I was seated with others in the front row of the balcony of the King's Theatre. A gentleman occupying a gangway seat commenced to push past in the endeavour to leave a few moments before the show ended. Temporarily I prevented this. Being a Chinese, doubtless he was quite unaware of his insufferable rudeness and, when some foreign ladies were equally ill-mannered, I allowed him and a foreigner to pass. All of them could have climbed the staired gangway and left the Theatre without inconveniencing those seated in the front rows.

The number of British in Hongkong—some in the Services—who dislike showing a few moments respect for our King leads one to believe that the spirit of communism is spreading with the same rapidity as are ill-manners and to feel that perhaps one has but little justification for criticising Chinese and others who are shown such a poor example.

If your opinion and personal experience in local theatres permit of you to support my letter and my plea to the community, when in theatres, to remain at their seats until the National Anthem has been played, perhaps you can find space for this letter. If, in addition, you add your own views, it may lead many, who otherwise would not do so, to show a proper respect for our King and a greater consideration for their neighbours.

Week-end Matches at Y.M.C.A.

TWO DRAWN GAMES.

Two water-polo games were played in the Y.M.C.A. bath yesterday. In the morning the home side met a seven from the R.A.M.C., the game resulting in a one-all draw. The R.A.M.C. allowed their men to drift about the bath too much and gave the Y.M.C.A. many opportunities, full advantage of which were not taken. The teams changed over without scoring. Richardson opened the scoring for the R.A.M.C. but Jenner soon equalised.

In the afternoon the Y.M.C.A. and Eighth Flotilla played a two-all draw.

QUIETER TONE IN THE PIECE GOODS MARKET

The following reports by importers have been supplied to the Hongkong General Chamber of Commerce: Cotton piece goods & fancy cotton goods.—The following reports have been received:

There has been a quieter tone in the market and no new business of any importance can be recorded. The local situation has been overcast by the failure of two old established native Piece Goods firms, resulting in more bankrupt cargo being thrown on the market. Clearances have been on a smaller scale but prices for Staples remain steady.

The latest cotton prices to hand are those of the 24th inst.—Mid. American "Spot" 5.44d. Egyptian Sakel, F.G.F. 5.50d. HOW HONGKONG WON: SPECIAL "TELEGRAPH" REPORT

CLUB UNLUCKY TO LOSE IMPROVED RUGBY AGAINST THE BORDERERS

(By "Fly Half")

Borderers 8 points
Club 3 points

The Club can regard themselves as distinctly unlucky to lose to the strong Borderers XV on Saturday. Superior in almost every phase of the game save in the loose, the Civilians gave a greatly improved display, the pack in particular doing good work in the tight. The Club had most of the ball, but ineffectiveness on the part of the backs robbed them of points.

For this game at the Valley the Club were still without a Soler for whom Macintosh again deputised at the base of the scrum whilst Riggs and Burch came into the side at centre three-quarters and forward respectively instead of Griffiths and Kerr who both had strained ankles.

The Borderers field a very strong side including eleven of the Army side which had beaten the Navy in the Triangular Tournament on the previous Wednesday.

Martin won the toss and set the Club to face a slight breeze which was blowing from the pavilion end. Turner kicked off for the Club, who were quickly driven back into their half where the aggressive tactics of the Borderers forwards kept them for some time. The Club pack was inclined to take things too easy for the first ten minutes of the game and were hard pressed in the loose, but in the tight scrums they saw most of the ball in spite of the fact that Hoskins nearly always put the ball in crookedly.

FAULTY REFEREEING. In spite of this, however, Hoskins was not penalised once throughout the game although the fault was glaringly obvious from the stand on many occasions. The referee was also very lenient to the Borderers wing forwards who repeatedly hung around the Club side of the scrum and by their offside tactics severely harassed Macintosh and Turner.

I regret having to condemn them for these tactics as they know the game well and play with tremendous enthusiasm and dash. But somehow in watching them I am given the impression that they play with one eye on the referee. Having said this I have nothing but praise for the whole side.

BORDERERS SCORE. In the second half the Club improved, the forwards showing more life but the Borderers opened the scoring. From a loose scrum near the Club "25", the ball was holed cleanly by the Club forwards, but Walters kicked it away from Macintosh and dribbled over to score near the flag. Lloyd converted with a magnificent kick to give the Borderers a five points lead.

Following this reverse the Club woke up with a vengeance. The game became thrilling with the Army forwards also aroused to greater efforts. The Club pack were playing magnificently and Mo Elney again hooking well and Hall-Thompson playing his best game of the season in the line-outs the Club backs were nearly always in possession of the ball. They were handling well too in spite of an injury to Jenkins and it came as no surprise when Ferguson, running very strongly, got home to score a splendid try though tackled just short of the line. With his kick passing just outside the post McEllan missed a good chance of putting the club on level terms.

LUCKY TRY. The Club continued to play a storming game and McEllan went very close when from a penalty taken a long way out his kick hit the upright; but again it was the Borderers who scored.

A Club attack was repulsed by a kick down the middle of the field which either Jenkins or Grive could easily have taken but unfortunately for the Club each left it to the other, the ball bounced away from them and before they could recover the forwards were on them. The ball was kicked away and although one of the players was flagrantly offside they were allowed to go on for Hamilton to score an easy try earned by the quick following up of the forwards. Lloyd's kick failed.

Hard as they tried the Club were unable to recover from this reverse and the Borderers ran out lucky winners by 8 points to 3.

Of the winning team the backs all played well in defence but they saw too little of the ball to show their attacking abilities. Gould played soundly at full back in spite of a bad shaking he got in tackling Ferguson. In my opinion he is better than the Army full back Birt. Martin again played a splendid game on the right wing his service making him a difficult man to tackle. On the other wing Lewis who had no chance in attack usually just managed to stop Ferguson.

The centres were strong in defence but unresourceful in attack. Stevens played a very good game. His hands are good and several times he picked up an awkwardly rolling ball to save from the Club forwards and find touch with his effective kicking.

Hoskins was good too but must learn to put the ball straight into the scrum. Crowe-Road was splendid on the line-out but otherwise the Club pack were superior in the scrums and out of touch. In the loose rushes, however, the Welshmen were much better and played a rousing game.

Their footwork was good and their backing-up a real object lesson to the Club forwards. It was to this that they owed their win and throughout the game they were quick to seize on the mistakes of their opponents though it must be admitted that many cases of off-side went unpenalised.

CLUB PERSONALITIES. For the Club Grive played a good game at full back and is quickly regaining his old form. The display of the other backs was much better than that given the previous week, the handling in particular showing great improvement. Part of this may be traced to the play of the halves. Macintosh played his usual sound defensive game and also gave Turner a good service of the ball, though he was sorely harassed by the attentions of the opposing wingers. Turner handled the ball with confidence and frequently set his three-quarter line going with good passes.

I should still like to see him once or twice in a game try a short kick a head or a cut-through when one of the opposing centres lies too far ahead of his fly half, as Hamilton did in this game, as leaving a gap in the defence.

At present Turner misses Solby's long accurate passes which would give him room in which to manoeuvre. The right wing of the three-quarter line was better than the left. Riggs' handling was excellent and Ferguson ran brilliantly. He scored a fine try and might have had others if he had swerved outside Lewis instead of inside him, as he usually did. He has been accustomed to playing on the left wing, however, which would account for this fault.

The left wing was not so good, Jenkins being hurt and Lammerer a brilliant run round the Club line and almost scored in the corner.

LACKING PENETRATION.

The back division as a whole lacked penetration, and it is worthy of note that in their last five games the Club have scored only three tries, one by a forward—McEllan—and the other two by Ferguson. For this they can blame the pack which has given the backs plenty of the ball. On Saturday the Club pack played well and dominated the tight scrums, where McElney's hooking was too good for Trutt. They were better also in the line-out where Hall-Thompson played a great game but they had to yield the ball to the Borderers forwards in the loose.

The game was very exciting and aroused the large crowd to a high pitch of enthusiasm.

Next Saturday the Club play the Army in the Triangular Tournament and they will have to be at the top of their form to win.

POOREST INTERPORT FOR 10 YEARS

BUT CRITICS ARE SILENCED WHEN LOCAL TEAM RISE TO THE OCCASION

MASTERFUL HOWE: CHENG'S TWO GOALS: SOUND DEFENCE

Hongkong (Cheng 2, Wong Mee-shun and Howe) 4
Shanghai (Gash, Bolton "Darkie" Chen) 3

PLAYING the game of their lives, with every member of the team all out from the initial whistle, Hongkong beat Shanghai in the Interport football contest at the Canidrome on Saturday by 4 goals to 3.

AYE! AYE! SIR

"I told the Interport team on the McKinley last Monday night: 'I want you to go all out from the first whistle to the last. Play your hardest from start to finish and I am sure you will win. But whether you win or lose, if you do this the Selection Committee will feel perfectly satisfied.'"

"This is what they did, and they have won. It has made me the proudest man in Hongkong"—H.M. McTavish to "Veritas".

The standard of play was the poorest seen for 10 years, and according to our own correspondent, was below local league form.

This is the first time Hongkong have ever beaten the Northern Port on their own soil, and never has a victory been more richly deserved. Every member of one of the most closely analysed and severely criticised Interport combinations yet sent to Shanghai fully justified his selection.

Howe was a brilliant leader of the attack, and the Hongkong forwards more than realised expectations. Pardoe was another big success and there was no weak link in the visiting side.

STILL UNDEFEATED

Interporters Draw With Combined Chinese

THE Hongkong Interports put up another fine showing yesterday in their second match of the tour, when they drew with the Combined Chinese.

The team scored once each, and if Hongkong had made use of all their opportunities they would have won.

Shanghai never touched the form they promised, and in the second half were clearly outplayed, being constantly on the defensive. No less than 15,000 spectators followed the fast exchanges and fluctuating fortunes of the game.

(Our Own Correspondent).

(By Telegraph. Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1911. Licensed, Nov. 28, 10.10 a.m.)

Shanghai, Nov. 28.

Quite 15,000 spectators witnessed the Interport soccer match at the Canidrome on Saturday, and they were treated to the poorest display I have seen for ten years.

The standard of both teams at time was so low that it was not in the same class as senior local league football.

Hongkong well deserved to win, for they were the fitter of the two teams, and were always more impressive than the home team, whose team work was deplorable. Hongkong outplayed Shanghai in the second half, but lacked understanding in the first 45.

NOT A WEAK SPOT.

After the change over, the visitors jumped into their stride. They obtained the full measure of the Shanghai team and producing clever combination soon had the home team in difficulties. So improved a display did they give that there was no doubt that a really weak spot in the Hongkong side. Cheng and Baldry were starved in the first half, but for all this the Hongkong vanguard were vastly superior to Shanghai, whose weak efforts in attack were most disappointing to their supporters. The second half practically resolved itself into a straight-forward duel between the Shanghai defence and the Colony's attack, the latter being backed by a sound defence.

CLEVER CHENG.

Cheng Shui-hong at outside right was the most enterprising forward on the field and toyed with the opposition. It was his brilliant opportunism which led to his scoring two goals.

Wong Mee-shun, Howe and Suen Kam-shun, Hongkong's three inside forwards indulged in neat constructive football and were at all times to clever for Stanley Gash and his colleagues.

Wong was outstanding with his remarkably clever opening-up passes. He gave Cheng every opportunity in the second half and at the same time allowed Howe to give one of his best displays. Baldry after playing first rate football in the first half, faded out of the picture. His corner kicking was unusually fine in the opening stages, but later he became unreliable and mis-kicked badly with first-time shots.

"ANDY" IN FORM.

The Hongkong half backs came up to expectations, Andy Duncan using his head and feet with effect. Pardoe was at all prominent with some fine tackling. His work at times was marked by cleverness, but he was apt to be greedy and slow in distributing the ball.

Strange, at left back, was the finest player on the field, and together with Mullane and Rodger constituted a brilliant defence.

Rodger, although beaten three times had no chance whatever with the shot, and otherwise played his usual confident game.

The only player of note in the Shanghai team was Chow, the custodian, who in the second half continually thwarted the Hongkong forwards. He stood between Shanghai and a very big defeat.

The rest of the team were well below form and gave one of the most disappointing displays imaginable.

WELL DONE!

A TRIBUTE TO A FINE TEAM

There was no doubt that Hongkong was fairly astonished on Saturday night when the news came through that the team had beaten Shanghai, writes "Veritas". Mr. Hector McTavish, Chairman of the Selection Committee which had got together one of the most severely criticised teams Hongkong has ever put into the Interport field, was naturally delighted.

"I am the proudest man in Hongkong," he said. "Nothing could have made me happier on the eve of my departure from the Colony than this." May I, as one of the chief critics of the team, offer my sincerest congratulations on the achievement? It is obvious that the success was no fluke, but that Hongkong won on their merits; if they had been three goals to the good at the final whistle they would not have been flattered.

SPIRIT THAT WINS.

That spirit of confidence displayed by the team and Manager Hollands before their departure, was no light and meaningless thing. It carried the Hongkong men to victory and was the means of their achievement in being the first Hongkong side to take the Telegraph Cup away from Shanghai.

Before the team played their final practice match against the Combined Chinese I expressed the faith that they would win because of the strong forward line, and although on that occasion we were disappointed it is cheering to know that they produced their best form on Saturday and impressed Shanghai as being one of the best line of attackers who have ever visited the Northern Port from this Colony.

Howe, by his able leadership and a magnificent goal which decided the issue, fully sustained the confidence displayed in him and he has the personal satisfaction of knowing that he was one of the outstanding players on the field.

GOOD WORK BY HALVES.

The brilliant work of Cheng Shui-hong was another gratifying feature, although personally I never entertained doubts that he would prove his worth. He showed in the trials that he was a winger capable of giving of his best under any circumstances and his success was but a natural result to his inclusion.

H.K. LADIES LOSE TO ST. ANDREWS

MUCH BETTER TEAM

MAMAK WIN FOR RADIO

[By "Bully-Off"]

The Hongkong Ladies Hockey Club, holders of the Cner Clark Cup, suffered their second successive defeat at the hands of St. Andrews Ladies when the teams met on the U.S.R.C. ground on Saturday afternoon. St. Andrews are the champion's closest rivals for the trophy this year, and if they are to retain it the Hongkong Club will have to show better form than that exhibited on Saturday.

On the whole the game was dull and uninteresting, the only bright spot being in the first ten minutes, when the St. Andrews team netted thrice in quick succession. The Cup winners were taken completely by surprise and before they could recover they were three goals down. Miss F. Gittens performed the hat-trick. From this point until the change-over play opened up, both sides sharing the exchanges, although St. Andrews continued to have a slight advantage territorially. The Hongkong Club offered a sturdy defence which their opponents were unable to pierce.

FLUCTUATING PLAY. Upon resumption, play fluctuated and it was only through lack of combination that the Hongkong forwards were unable to reduce the lead. Miss Alun Jones struck the post and Miss Ferguson netted a goal which was disallowed because of an infringement. Miss Gittens was undoubtedly the outstanding player on the field, and had come in from her customary position of left-wing to left-inner. Miss W. White was the pick of the St. Andrews' intermediate line, checking the opposing forwards on numerous occasions. The Hongkong forward line was decidedly weak, and very little support to Miss Ferguson, who played a hard game.

OTHER MATCHES. The Y.M.C.A. Ladies fielded only eight players against H.M.S. Kent on Saturday at King's Park, and were forced to accept the service of E. F. Selk, of the Y.M.C.A. XI, and a member of the Kent team. At the interval the Sailors led by three goals to one. Miss B. Walker being responsible for the ladies' goal. In the second half the Navy men added a fourth.

By the odd goal in three, the Club de Rociers defeated Hongkong Ladies "A" at Sookunpo on Saturday. Goals for the winners

THREE TENNIS FINALS ON SATURDAY

Mrs. Stark and Mrs. James won the Ladies Doubles Handicap at the L. R. C. "At Home" on Saturday, when they defeated Mrs. Wood and Miss Orme in the final 6-3, 3-6, 6-2.

The Mixed Doubles Championship was captured by V. R. Gordon and Miss Thomas, who overcame G. Gamble and Miss Orme 6-3, 9-7. The men's singles championship final between Capt. Cannon and L. Evans was not played owing to Mr. Evans being indisposed. It will be played off at a later date.

Mrs. R. E. Tottenham presented the prizes and tea was enjoyed by the gathering.

were noted by A. Alves and G. Bototho. J. Dalziel replied for the losers.

W. J. Brown scored three goals, taking his aggregate to 32 this season when the Y.M.C.A. defeated the R.A.F. at King's Park, on Saturday by 6-5.

The scoring was opened by Fowler for the Y.M.C.A. and this was followed soon after by goals by Baldwin and Fowler again. Brown was the next to find the net before the Air Force levelled matters up with three goals scored by Batten, Gulliver and Funlington before half-time.

The exchanges were even in the second half, and Brown found the net on two occasions, Gulliver and Wallace replying for the R.A.F.

RADIO'S CLOSE CALL. The Kowloon Indians did well to hold the Radio Sports Club, present holders of the Mamak trophy, to a two clear goal win at Caroline Hill yesterday. The game was fast with plenty of hard hitting, and it was undoubtedly the sterling defence put up by Karnal Singh and Nadiul, who frustrated many movements by the Radio attack, that kept the score down. The result was somewhat of a surprise as the Indians have yet to win a game in the tourney and the Radio hold the second position in the table.

The Radio scored one goal, in each half, Hanib and Gurbachan Singh respectively being responsible for the scoring. The latter scored through a penalty bully in the circle against the goal-keeper.

K. C. C. Beat Shameen at Tennis

The Kowloon Cricket Club took ample revenge for their defeat at the hands of the Shameen Tennis Club of two months ago, when yesterday they beat the Canton team at the K.C.C. by six matches to three.

One of the most successful events ever staged by the K.C.C., was enjoyed by the two teams, the spirit of fraternity and conviviality which marked the visit of the Hongkong team to Canton being reproduced in the week-end festivities.

Members of the Canton team were guests of honour at a dance held in the K.C.C. on Saturday night, when a most enjoyable time was spent. Some 200 members and friends gathered at the clubhouse and danced to the strains of the Lincoln Regiment dance band. Mr. G. A. White carried out the duties of M.C. and spot walks and fox-trot competitions were included in

THE TEAMS.

The two tennis teams met on Sunday, singles being played in the morning and doubles after. The K.C.C. established a lead of 4-2 during the forenoon play, and eventually won two of three doubles.

An official tiffin party, presided over by Mr. Ezra Abraham, Vice President of the K.C.C., was held in the club house, when Mr. Abraham presented silver spoons to the visiting team as a memento of the occasion.

Mr. Jack Pote-Hunt, captain of the visiting team, suitably acknowledged the gesture and expressed the hope that Shameen would shortly have the pleasure of again entertaining the Kowloon Cricket Club tennis team. After the match, the teams assembled and held a "stag party" dinner, after which the visitors left by the night boat.

The results in detail were:

Singles.

G. A. White (K.C.C.) beat J. Pote-Hunt 4-6, 6-4, 6-1.

W. Hung (K.C.C.) beat F. Read 7-5, 7-5.

F. Kengelbacker (K.C.C.) beat Ott 6-2, 6-4.

E. Zimmermann (K.C.C.) lost to J. Thatch 6-8, 2-6.

S. A. Gray (K.C.C.) beat Krebs 6-2, 6-7, 6-2.

N. A. E. Mackay (K.C.C.) lost to Hannaford 6-8, 6-2, 8-10.

Doubles.

Hung and Zimmermann (K.C.C.) beat Read and Thatch 6-8, 6-4.

Gray and Kengelbacker (K.C.C.) beat Pote-Hunt and Ott 8-6, 6-3.

Mackay and White (K.C.C.) lost to Hannaford and Krebs 3-6, 1-6.

CHINA REALTY COMPANY 8% DEBENTURES
8% INTEREST VS 6% INTEREST
MEANS ONE THIRD MORE INCOME

The following extracts are taken from the Chairman's statement at the last annual Shareholders' Meeting, February 29th, 1932.

"We feel that the Debenture holder from an investment standpoint, is just as much an interested partner of the Company as the Common Shareholder and is entitled to his just return on his investment, and by the figures given on the two years' working, I think we have amply proven that we were right that our Debenture holders receive eight per cent. interest instead of six per cent."

"The most successful concerns of the future will be those who recognize this principle—that even banks will allocate to depositors, a part of profits earned on their money over and above current rates of interest. As our balance sheets show quite plainly, the proceeds from the sale of our debentures is not used for the purchase of Real Estate, as we are not speculators, but for investment in first class mortgages, amply secured not only by the value of the property pledged as security, but as a further security, the debentures constitute a first claim on the total assets of the Company. An analysis of the figures involved shows that every debenture has behind it assets equal to three times its value."

"If after careful consideration of actual facts and figures you are receiving less than 8% upon your investments and/or savings, you are not using judgment but following old customs, believing 5% and 6% are current rates."

COMPARISON

Mortgage Department, 1930-1931

Year	Amount	Market Value of Property	% Value loaned	Average Interest rate	Average Commission %	Excess Interest over 8%	Amount Commission Earned
1930	10,052,040	$18,662,000	54%	9.18%	1.215%	$118,614	$122,316
1931	19,194,867	34,075,565	56%	9.33%	0.765%	255,291	146,825
						$373,905	$269,141
							373,905

Earned above 8% paid to Debenture holders—$643,046

Of the above mortgages, there was assigned to investors:

1930 $ 6,532,660.00
1931 $13,223,545.00

A lower rate of commission existed in 1931 due to cheap money for the greater part of the year, from September, money commenced to tighten up. As it is we earned 1.33% interest in excess of 8% paid on our Debentures, in addition to $146,825 commissions. From the above it will be seen that our 8% Debentures are secured by first mortgages on 56.4% of value and backed up with $5,000,000 capital.

The natural laws of economics require an investor to secure the best return especially upon savings—trust funds—consistent with safety.

The China Realty Company is one of the oldest (established more than 20 years) real estate companies in Shanghai with a steady, successful record back of it.

Capital $5,000,000 fully paid in cash.

Business turnover 1931, $45,632,300 in land and mortgages only, which does not include management of estates, rent collections, insurance written, trustees for beneficial owners of property and sundry sources of income.

The Company are Realtors, not speculators in Real Estates.
The balance sheets as of December 31, 1931 shows:

Assets	$12,341,726.31
Lands and Buildings at cost	3,351,055.84
Cash	1,844,259.17
Mortgages on Real Estates held by Company Dec. 31, 1931	$5,971,200
Total Debenture issue Dec. 31, 1931	4,840,700

by which it will be noted that all of the proceeds from Debentures are invested in Mortgages and $1,131,500 of the Company's capital.

In the past twenty years the Company has negotiated more than one hundred million Taels in mortgages, all of which has been repaid, principal with interest.

NOTES SUPPLIED BY THE THEATRES

Child stars don't remain child stars all their lives. They grow up. And, generally, they disappear into obscurity. Not so, however, with Ben Alexander, child star of D. W. Griffith's "Hearts of the World" and a score of other movies of a decade ago. He's no longer a child star, but an adult player of distinction. He will be found in an important rôle in "The Vanishing Frontier," coming to the King's Theatre on Thursday next, starring Johnny Mack Brown, and featuring Evelyn Knapp, Zau Pitts, Raymond Hatton and J. Farrell MacDonald.

In "The Vanishing Frontier," Alexander is cast as the brother of Evelyn Knapp. She, as the daughter of a general in charge of the military government of Old California, is in love with Johnny Mack Brown, an outlaw fighting against her father.

"Lady and Gent."

There are four types of lovers among American men. That you have on the authority of blonde young Wynne Gibson, featured with George Bancroft in "Lady and Gent," a Paramount picture which is showing at the King's Theatre. First there is the tender lover. He is a virtual slave to the woman he adores. He is never even for an instant, unkind or harsh, and fulfills it before she can express it. Second, there is the noble lover. He is the kind who is willing to give up family ties, a chance to make good in his father's brokerage office, or anything else, to win the girl he loves. Then there is the romantic lover. He must have a moon, sighing pine boughs, and soft music in the distance to put him across. This type usually has to digest a couple of volumes of James Branch Cabell before a date. And last, but certainly not least, there is the civilized caveman the masterful lover. Most of today's popular screen lovers are of this type—Maurice Chevalier, George Bancroft, Clark Gable, John Barrymore, Frederick March and Ronald Colman. Miss Gibson, in "Lady and Gent," demonstrates her own liking for the last type by sticking with cire George Bancroft.

CALL OF THE WEST

"Are you hurt?" he cried.

She looked into his eyes and suddenly Dona became repentant. Dudley had suffered during her absence, that was certain.

"I'm all right. How is Dad?" She spoke rapidly.

"He's running around like a wild man. We'd better get right in before he burns down the camp." Dudley was beginning to regain his composure now that he saw she was not harmed.

"Has he been riding?" Dona asked contritely.

"All over the mountain! You'll never know how glad I am to see you. I could no more handle him than I could a wounded tiger!" Dudley was plainly relieved to have Asper off his hands.

"We'll gallop right in," Dona said. She cast a last glance up the slope where the posse was forming around the dense growth in which she had left Stan Ball. The circle had tightened and the men now were crawling forward with the greatest caution.

Dudley mopped his face with a silk handkerchief as he jolted along at her side.

"Has Swergin been in with any news?" Dona asked.

"We haven't had a word about you. This is the first news," Dudley shouted to make her hear above the rattle of the horses' flying hoofs.

Dona's lips pulled tight and her eyes flashed. She would have something to say to the big timber boss when they met and she realized also that she would have some explaining to do on her own account. Her father might not be easily convinced when she told him of her experience. Dona was sure there would be a scene when she explained the near lynching.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

By W. E. McKenney

Editor's Note: This is the sixth of the articles by Mr. McKenney explaining the one over one system for contract bridge.

Contrary to the general practice used at auction bridge, third or fourth hand, under the one over one system in contract, may open on much less strength than is required for either first or second hand.

The third or fourth hand bidder is confronted with an entirely different situation from that of the first or second hand bidder. Partner has passed, and he may have passed a very good hand, but one that could not meet the heavy requirements to make a first or second hand bid. Therefore third or fourth hand should make what is known as a protective or defensive bid.

The requirements for an original suit bid for one, third or fourth hand, are 2 to 2½ high card tricks and a biddable suit, and it is not necessary to have a re-bid. All that the third or fourth hand bidder is attempting to do is to protect partner's hand and to work for a partial score.

Reviewing original suit bids of one, we find that the requirements for first and second hand bids are very strong, while third and fourth hand may open with an apparently weak hand.

The auction player taking up contract will frequently make the mistake of opening the bidding with what he believes to be a fair hand instead of adhering strictly to the requirements as outlined in this system. It will be found after playing contract a few times that no trouble will be experienced in passing fairly strong first and second hands while being prepared to enter the bidding on the second round, and bidding rather weak third and fourth hands either for protective bids or for defensive purposes.

In the one over one system, only hands of exceptional strength are opened with anything more than an original bid of one, therefore it naturally follows that, due to the strong requirements especially for first and second hand bids, partner may keep the bidding open holding very little strength. Partner should give the original bidder what we term a chance by replying to a suit bid of one with a bid of at least one no trump holding as little as two queens or a king and a jack.

It is true that there are types of hands that may be passed, but these are in the minority and at the start it is far better to keep all original first or second hand bids open with one no trump with as little as two queens.

Third or fourth hand vulnerable bids may be passed unless partner's hand contains a king and a queen, when a bid of one no trump should be made.

In the one over one system the original bidder may have opened the bidding with a very strong hand. The next hand passing shows a certain amount of weakness; and while there are a few hands where partner may get into trouble by keeping the bidding open with one no trump, they are in the minority and more is to be gained by giving partner another opportunity to bid.

To-morrow we will take up the proper responses to original suit bids of one.

THE MAYE SISTERS.

AUSTRALIAN COMEDIENNES
AT PENINSULA HOTEL

The large crowd which attended Saturday night's dinner dance in the Rose Room of the Peninsula Hotel were entertained by two Australian girls, "The Maye Sisters," in three pleasing numbers. These versatile young ladies presented a comedy sketch, "The Raw Recruit" in a manner that evoked hearty laughter. Their eccentric dancing and finally their tap dancing made them firm favourites.

Before leaving for Saigon to fulfil an engagement, the Maye Sisters will appear nightly at dinner dances in the Peninsula Hotel Rose Room.

A COLOURFUL VIENNESE ROMANCE LILTING
WALTZES—STIRRING MARCHES AND CATCHY SONGS.

A British & Dominions Super Production.
Commencing TO-MORROW

The National Broadcasting Company star, Graham McNamee, telling you as you see the story of immaculate Pitz Palu, mountain peak that lured men on with its gleaming whiteness... what a tremendous background for this drama of hearts aflame. What a throbbing thrills as the lovers leap over bottomless chasms, cling to crumbling crags! Climaxed by Germany's greatest living ace zooming his plane through perilous icorgorge 2,000 feet deep!

With the song "Loving You."
The picture is so unusual, so unique, so thrilling, so spectacular, so gripping that we urge you to see it. The marvel of the picture is that it could have been filmed at all, so dangerous and unattainable is its locale. Featuring Gustav Diesel, Leni Riefenstahl, Ernst Pötzner and Ernst Udet.

Directed by Dr. Arnold Fanck and G. W. Pabst.

It's a Universal Super-Production.

JAPANESE PLAN OF DISARMAMENT.

SUPPRESSION OF AIR CRAFT CARRIERS

Geneva, Nov. 26. While Sir John Simon has left for London to take part in the Cabinet war debt discussions, Herr von Neurath has left for Berlin, and M. Paul Boncour for Paris to discuss disarmament with M. Herriot, and probably to decide whether M. Herriot shall go to Geneva next week to participate in the Proposed Five Power conversations which Mr. Ramsay MacDonald is also likely to attend. In the absence of Sir John Simon charge of the British Delegation will be assumed by Captain Anthony Edon, Under Secretary for Foreign Affairs, who left on Saturday for Geneva.

Japan's Disarmament Plans.

It is reliably learned that the Japanese naval proposals consist of the amalgamation of the Anglo-American proposals, and include a

IRISH FREE STATE.

SHOP-KEEPER APPOINTED GOVERNOR-GENERAL.

London, Nov. 26. Mr. John Dulanty, High Commissioner in London for the Irish Free State has announced that "His Majesty the King, on the advice of the Executive Council of the Irish Free State, has appointed Mr. Daniel Buckley to the office of Governor-General of the Free State."

Mr. Buckley is a native of Mayo and a shop-keeper who was a member of the first and second Dail. In 1923 he was defeated, but is now a member for Kildare. Mr. Daniel Buckley took the oath of allegiance to the King in the drawing room of his brother's house in Blackrock, Dublin. Reuter and British Wireless.

RECENT BROKERS' QUARREL

Rehearing of Case Refused

NO FRESH FACTS

The application before Mr. Schofield at the Central Court for the re-hearing of the case in which Yau Lok-tin, a broker, summoned Dr. Fred Kew for assault, and was himself defendant on a cross-summons, was refused. Both parties in the original proceedings were bound over.

In making the application on behalf of Yau Lok-tin, Mr. R.C.H. Lim indicated that it was on legal grounds.

For Dr. Fred Kew, Mr. Leo D'Almada, Sr., raised a preliminary objection to the application, upon which he thought the proceedings should be dismissed.

He gathered, from a copy of the depositions that on the 17th instant, within a week of the Magistrate's original decision, his friend applied for a re-hearing on the cross-summons, by which Yau Lok-tin was convicted of assault.

"NO RIGHT AT ALL."

The application was made on the ground that his friend was entitled to ask for a re-hearing to argue a question of law.

"The usual grounds," said Mr. D'Almada, "for an application for re-hearing in this Court do not give my friend any right at all. The usual grounds for such application are (1) that the applicant was not represented by a solicitor or barrister and that since the decision of the Court he had discovered fresh evidence which he could adduce for the purpose of establishing his innocence; and (2) that a certain witness who was intended to be called at the original hearing was not called through some accident or otherwise."

Mr. D'Almada proceeded to cite Stone on the subject, and the proviso given therein that Magistrates may re-hear cases after decision has been pronounced on grounds of having been taken by surprise by the evidence or having, subsequent to the hearing, discovered testimony which might have affected the judgment.

Mr. D'Almada pointed out that in this case Mr. Lim was not making his application on the ground of fresh facts discovered, but on a question of law which he appeared to have failed to argue at the original hearing.

LAW PROCEDURE.

Mr. Lim:—In the usual law procedure one is entitled to appeal on a point of law even where both parties are represented by legal representatives. I submit that the rule applies to this Court also. There is nothing to prevent me for asking for a re-hearing on a point of law.

Mr. Schofield asked Mr. Lim for his authorities.

Mr. Lim replied that the onus was on his friend.

Mr. Schofield:—It is your application.

After referring to the Magistrate's Ordinance, Mr. Schofield said:—My view is this: Re-hearing on a point of law is never laid down. The Magistrate may, at his own discretion, re-hear a case on any ground. But the Magistrate's Ordinance provides that the proper procedure is appeal to a Higher Court. The grounds for this application appear to be insufficient, and Mr. D'Almada's objection should be sustained.

The P. and O. liner Kaiser-I-Ind is due here from Singapore with the English mails at 10 a.m. on December 1st.

JAPAN AND LEAGUE

MANCHURIA PROBLEM TO GO TO ASSEMBLY

Tokyo, Nov. 26. The Japanese delegation to Geneva has been instructed to attend the League Assembly but to oppose the application of Article Fifteen of the League Covenant to the dispute.—Reuter.

Tokyo, Nov. 27. It is reliably reported that Japan will strongly oppose any move to give Assembly full power of discussing the Manchurian question, according to a decision reached at a special meeting today of officials of the Foreign office.—Reuter's Special.

Shanghai, Nov. 27. Whatever force is applied, the fact that the State of Manchukuo really exists cannot be denied. This is the gist of a lengthy statement which Mr. Shih-Chieh-shih has sent from Changchun to the League of Nations and all Consulates in Manchuria.—Reuter's Special.

MISSIONARY KILLED.

MR. H. S. FERGUSON DIES IN HANDS OF "REDS"

Shanghai, Nov. 27. An unconfirmed statement received by the China Inland Mission locally, states that Mr. H. S. Ferguson, who was captured by the "Reds" at Chongyangkuan, Anhui province, on May 12 last, has died at the hands of his captors.

Mr. Ferguson was a Canadian and a missionary of long standing in China.—Reuter.

NOBEL PEACE PRIZE.

COMMITTEE DECIDES NOT TO AWARD

London, Nov. 27. The Nobel Committee of the Storting has decided not to award the Nobel Peace Prize this year but to carry forward the amount of the prize to next year.—Our Own Correspondent.
